Is Obama Really Preparing For Civil War?

by Chuck Baldwin - chuckbaldwinlive.com

According to an obscure report in the European Union Times (EUTimes.net), "Russian Military Analysts are reporting to Prime Minister Putin that US President Barack Obama has issued an order to his Northern Command's (USNORTHCOM) top leader, US Air Force General Gene Renuart, to 'begin immediately' increasing his military forces to 1 million troops by January 30, 2010, in what these reports warn is an expected outbreak of civil war within the United States before the end of winter.

"According to these reports, Obama has had over these past weeks 'numerous' meetings with his war council about how best to manage the expected implosion of his Nation's banking system while at the same time attempting to keep the United States military hegemony over the World in what Russian Military Analysts state is a 'last ditch gambit' whose success is 'far from certain.'"

The EUTimes article continues by saying, "To the fears of Obama over the United States erupting into civil war once the full extent of the rape and pillaging of these peoples by their banks and government becomes known to them, grim evidence now shows the likelihood of this occurring much sooner than later."

The Times story goes on to say that there are "over 220 million American people armed to the teeth and ready to explode."

The Times article concludes by saying, "Though the coming civil war in the United States is being virtually ignored by their propaganda media, the same cannot be said of Russia, where leading Russian political analyst, Professor Igor Panarin has long warned that the economic turmoil in the United States has confirmed his long-held view that the US is heading for collapse."

Many of us would be inclined to pooh-poo such a story, but then there is this column from Bloomberg.com entitled "Arming Goldman With Pistols Against Public," written by Alice Schroeder. According to Ms Schroeder:

"I just wrote my first reference for a gun permit,' said a friend, who told me of swearing to the good character of a Goldman Sachs Group Inc. banker who applied to the local police for a permit to buy a pistol. The banker had told this friend of mine that senior Goldman people have loaded up on firearms and are now equipped to defend themselves if there is a populist uprising against the bank."

There is no doubt that the American people have good reason to despise these international banksters epitomized by Goldman Sachs. Even

Food prices to skyrocket as supplies plunge -

Low inventories, lack of farmers brings on 'perfect storm'

In a recent report on the state of the economy, the New York Times said food stamps are being used by a record number – one in eight – Americans and one in four children.

At the same time, food banks run by churches are being overrun with requests for help. And if that isn't troubling enough, other data point to a much darker future.

Editor's Note:

This past week the giant plant genetics company Bayer admitted in a US Federal Court that it has been "unable to control the spread of its genetically-engineered organisms despite 'the best practices' to stop widespread contamination" and which may very well see the destruction of the American's ability to feed themselves as these 'monster plants' reap their destruction on Nature. Genetics is life, and we need to tend it!

What do people do when the government is SO out of control, SO lawless, SO corrupt... that they completely ignore the boss? Well, you go back to our roots... go back to the actual laws designed to protect us, and you ignore EVERY ASPECT OF THE GOVERNMENT THAT IS OUTSIDE THOSE LAWS.

“Usurping?” Usurpation? What is that? (Oooh-sur-pa-tion). a: “To take possession of without legal claim; to seize and hold (as office, place, or powers) in possession by force or without right; b: to take or make use of without right.” This means to steal, unlawfully take, pilage, deceive, defraud, and otherwise cheat you OUT of what is rightfully and legally YOURS!

January 20th is a National Strike Day. (Read about it on the News Brief page 7) This is a day that all American’s can actually do something and have an impact directly in making a point. Part of this day can include the simple remedy to the loss of your income... Refile your W4 form with your employer... and opt out of the payroll deduction plan.

“No, that sounds scary, or illegal.” Well it isn’t illegal, and if it is “scary,” it is because we’ve forgotten to examine our lives and how we are being deceived and defrauded by governments across the country because we don’t KNOW the law, and how LAW is actually on our side.

The Payroll deduction plan is VOLUNTARY...

Title 26, CFR - 31.3402(p)-1(b)(i)

“...an employee who desires to enter an agreement under section 3402(p) shall furnish his employer with Form W-4... the furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute a request for withholding.”

iii (2): “An agreement under section 3402(p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other.”

Does that sound like... “you HAVE to fill this out or you can’t get a job” to YOU? No. Our employers have been deceived by the IRS as much as we have. In fact, when the IRS gets these “opt out” forms, they often will send a paper bullet (legally worthless piece of paper) “ordering” the employer to refile a W-4 form FOR you and to place ZERO deductions on it. Of course, this is in gross violation of law and is fraud on both the employee and the employer because the employee loses money every check, and the employer has to do the paperwork, accounting, etc.

The employer can simply send a tentative “NO” to the IRS and request the IRS provide them with proof that they are required by law to perform as they direct and WHY they are demanding this action contrary to Title 26. There IS NO LAW that does this, so they won’t be able to lawfully respond.. The IRS is the schoolyard bully we all hated and despised, and they are breaking their own laws... imagine that.

Attention Citizens of America:

For those who take our times and our situation seriously, we call upon everyone to reach out to like-minded people in your area and begin NOW to prepare for the worst, and work to make it the best. We NEED each other... we NEED a network... we need to know each other and join forces. If you want to make such contact and don’t have anyone in your area, please contact the Free Press and we will help coordinate contacts in your area so you can build the support structures you know you will need. Take this VERY seriously because something IS in the wind.

Employees often state they are REQUIRED to get a W-4 from you, and they will threaten you with the loss of your job if you say no, but ARE they “required” to get this W-4?

-Internal Revenue Manual, Part 5.14.10.2:

“Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction agreements.”

Wow, so how can they spin this into “required?” They can’t. On top of all this, employers are NOT required to be withholding agents for the IRS. They have no legal duty to do this unless an employee requests for payroll deductions, and even in THAT case, I’d send a yearly bill to the IRS for the costs associated with being a “withholding agent” for the IRS without compensation being provided.

These withholdings INCLUDE Social Security and Medicare, which cannot be forced, by law, from you. Imagine a 30% pay raise with your next check? All it takes is a little reading homework. If you are concerned about all this, simply send your own letter using the documents available and ASK the IRS to clarify ‘WHY YOU HAVE TO HAVE WITHHOLDING CONTRARY TO THE LAW.’ Put the burden of proof on them. When they don’t answer, or give you a non-answer, you have the documentation showing that you showed good faith in seeking the truth, and you can now disregard any unlawful requests.

Second thing we can do: Investigate your legal position in the “Income” tax scam. Do you know what “income” actually is, legally? Can you define it according to law and NOT according to propaganda, or “conventional wisdom?” If you haven’t, then you are being suckered into paying taxes on something you don’t even have in most cases.

How many times do I have to say this? How many times do we have to publish the laws, the case law and the constitutional issues involving taxation before we stand up and defend our rights and freedoms?

Besides you not having legal “income” in most cases, the IRS Code actually has nothing in it that lawfully...

1. Makes you a “taxpayer,” as they LOVE to label us... There is NO law “making” you a “taxpayer.” They act as if EVERYONE is a “taxpayer,” but this MUST be shown by LAW in order for them to demand that you pay “income” taxes. Guess what? When you file the 1040 bootleg form, you are “self assessing” and voluntarily declaring that you ARE a “taxpayer,” and that you “owe” whatever you put down on the form. Write the IRS and ask them... “show me the law?” (Questions to the IRS available online - See P. 22 - Create a paper trail of doing your duty to understand the law. When they don’t respond, they are in default).

2. Proves that you are receiving “income” as defined by law, and NOT by what everyone has been told. Income is NOT wages, salary or compensation for service, so say the courts. (See “What is Income,” P.22).

3. Makes you liable FOR filing a 1040 form... because the 1040 form is not presently a legal government document that they can REQUIRE you to fill out and “return.” The 1040 form is actually a “bootleg” form that the courts have stated clearly we do not have to file, (except in the trash heap), when it is not a legal government form. (Proof law available online - See P. 22).

one of Goldman's poster-boys, Henry Paulson, US Treasury secretary and former Goldman CEO, admitted that the American people were fed up. Schroeder quotes Paulson as saying, during testimony to Congress last summer, "[People] were unhappy with the big discrepancies in wealth, but they at least believed in the system and in some form of market-driven capitalism. But if we had a complete meltdown, it could lead to people questioning the basis of the system."

Schroeder correctly opines, "There you have it. The bailout was meant to keep the curtain drawn on the way the rich make money, not from the free market, but from the lack of one. Goldman Sachs blew its cover when the firm's revenue from trading reached a record $27 billion in the first nine months of this year, and a public that was writhing in financial agony caught on that the profits earned on taxpayer capital were going to pay employee bonuses."

Schroeder concludes her column by saying, "And if the proles [proletariat: plebs, working class, peasants] really do appear brandishing pitchforks at the doors of Park Avenue and the gates of Round Hill Road, you can be sure that the Goldman guys and their families will be holed up in their safe rooms with their firearms."

So, do Wall Street and Russian analysts know something that we don't know? Is this why George W. Bush initiated USNORTHCOM to begin with? Is this why Barack Obama is beefing up USNORTHCOM? This would help explain the reports of all those potential detention camps that have been constructed (including the abandoned military installations that have refurbished security fences, guard towers, etc., around them). Has the American people's disgust with these crooks and thieves within the federal government and Wall Street reached a boiling point?

There is no question that people are angry, and for good reason.

The fraudulent financial policies of the Federal Reserve and its lackeys in the White House and Congress have literally bankrupted the country.

Real unemployment is most likely over 20%. Taxes (along with costly fees, regulations, restrictions, penalties, mandates, etc.) at every level are going through the ceiling. America's jobs have been outsourced. Barack Obama continues G.W. Bush's irresponsibility, digging America deeper and deeper into foreign entanglements, at the cost of trillions of dollars and thousands of lives. The IRS continues to harass and harangue honest citizens, squeezing them like the proverbial turnip. And now, add the insanity of a global climate treaty being hammered out in Copenhagen, and a universal health care bill being rammed through Congress, and the outlook is even gloomier.

I feel very comfortable in saying that the usurpations of power, the encroachments upon liberty, and the arrogant tax-and-spend policies emanating from Washington, D.C., and Wall Street these days are far more egregious than what George Washington and the boys were enduring in 1775-76 at the hands of the British Crown. There is no doubt in my mind that if Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, and Sam Adams were alive today, they would have given cause for the Goldman Sachs banksters to retreat to their bunkers years ago!

The fact is, we do need a revolution! But not a revolution of anarchy and pitchforks. (The history of France should be ample evidence of the futility of this strategy.) We need a revolution of the individual states: to reclaim their sovereignty and fight for the liberties of their sovereigns (We the People). That is exactly what our forefathers did in '76.

America's founding document (the Declaration of Independence) declares that our states are "free and independent." And so they are. We are not "one nation" with one all-powerful central government. We are a confederation of nation-states, united in a voluntary union, with each State reserving to itself the power and authority of self-determination, and ceding to the federal government limited, specifically delineated duties and limitations--limitations that have been totally ignored to the point that, for all intents and purposes, our once-great constitutional republic has been thoroughly expunged. Therefore, it is NOW time for the states to stand up to this meddlesome, every-growing tyranny that is known as Washington, D.C., and defend the rights and liberties of their citizens!

What Dr. Ed Vieira (an attorney with 4 earned degrees from Harvard, who has successfully argued cases before the US Supreme Court) wrote a few weeks ago should serve as a template for every State governor and legislature that truly cares about liberty. See Ed's column at:

<http://www.newswithviews.com/Vieira/edwin201.htm>

As Vieira says, the states should resurrect their militias. Many--if not all--states have the legal authority for such entities in their constitutions. In some states they are called the State Guard. Some plainly use the word "militia." Whatever they are called, they need to be activated. And all that is necessary for this to be accomplished is the order of the governor. It's that simple!

And as Vieira said, states need to adopt an alternative currency--including, and most especially, gold and silver. In other words, they need to develop their own private economies, complete with their own banks and exchange mediums. They also need to reject the multinational agribusiness and develop their own in-State agricultural and energy businesses.

I would dare say that the first State that determines to follow Vieira's sagacious counsel (and rumblings of this have already begun in states such as Alaska, Oklahoma, Texas, Montana, New Hampshire, Indiana, Tennessee, South Carolina, etc.) would have so many liberty-loving patriots flock there that its economy would explode with prosperity--resulting in a domino effect of many other states following suit--and the revolution that this country so desperately needs would indeed take place. Furthermore, such a revolution would be constitutional, lawful, moral, and, yes, in compliance with the laws of Nature and of Nature's God.

In the meantime, is Barack Obama really worried about civil war? He might be. It is my observation that Washington politicians and bureaucrats are the most paranoid people on the planet. The problem is--as with most power-hungry Machiavellians--their paranoia often translates into more oppression and less liberty for the citizenry. And if this is true, it simply means that the states need to hurry up and do what needs to be done!

ANGER WITH FEDERAL GOVERNMENT NOT ENOUGH

By Chuck

Baldwin - chuckbaldwinlive.com

According to Rasmussen Reports, "Seventy-one percent (71%) of voters nationwide say they're at least somewhat angry about the current policies of the federal government. That figure includes 46% who are Very Angry.

"The latest Rasmussen Reports national telephone survey finds that only 27% are not angry about the government's policies, including 10% who are Not at All Angry."

The report goes on to say, "The data suggests that the level of anger is growing. The 71% who are angry at federal government policies today is up five percentage points since September.

"Even more stunning, the 46% who are Very Angry is up 10 percentage points from September."

The report also states, "The latest numbers show that only nine percent (9%) of voters trust the judgment of America's political leaders more than the judgment of the American people." It further states, "Seventy-one percent (71%) believe the federal government has become a special interest group that looks out primarily for its own interests. Sixty-eight percent (68%) believe that government and big business work together in ways that hurt consumers and investors."

Rasmussen Reports goes on to say that voter opposition to the proposed health care plan, government bailouts, and higher taxes is especially high.

That Americans are angry with the federal government is nothing new. As a general rule, Americans STAY angry with the federal government. So what? Nothing changes, anger and discontentment notwithstanding.

Oh! Occasionally, grassroots effort can be mustered in sufficient quantity to stop whatever happens to be the latest effort by the miscreants in Washington, D.C., that tramples our freedoms. But only occasionally. The only recent triumph I can think of was when G.W. Bush, Lindsey Graham, and John McCain tried to ram an amnesty bill for illegal aliens through Congress. But never fear, Barack Obama, Nancy Pelosi, and Harry Reid will pick up that particular baton soon enough.

I'm old enough to remember when giving the Panama Canal away was opposed by virtually everyone outside the Beltway. It changed nothing. Jimmy Carter and Congress gave it away, anyway. Most people oppose the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. So what? Our troops are not only still there, but more are on the way. Most people believe children should be allowed to pray and read the Bible in school. So what? They still are forbidden from doing so. Most people believed former Alabama Chief Justice Roy Moore had the right to post the Ten Commandments in his courtroom. So what? He was forced to take them down, anyway (and removed from office in the process). I could go on, but you get the point.

Anger and opposition to Washington's policies and edicts--no matter how egregious--hardly ever translate into anything beyond words of frustration. And Washington politicians don't pay much attention to rhetoric--not even their own.

You see, the wizards in Washington and on Wall Street have us figured out. Along with their compatriots in the propaganda press corps, they know that no matter how loudly we scream, how much we protest, or how angry we become, the system is rigged to protect them. The best we the people can seem to come up with is "throwing the bums out" every two or four years. BUT NOTHING CHANGES--at least, not in terms of restoring the fundamental principles of freedom and constitutional government.

Throw out George H.W. Bush in 1992, and nothing changes. Throw the Democrats out of Congress in 1994, and nothing changes. Throw Bill Clinton's party out of the White House in 2000, and nothing changes. Throw out G.W. Bush's Republicans in 2008, and nothing changes. The only thing that happens with a changing of the guard is an escalation in the pace of whatever version of socialism--or Big Government program--is currently in vogue. With Bush it meant expanding the Warfare State. With Obama it means expanding the Welfare State. But both do everything they can to expand Big Government.

When will we awaken to the reality that Washington, D.C., has had the American people chasing their tails for decades? People, wake up! As long as we continue to focus our attention and energy on Washington, D.C., we will only continue to supply more rope to those who wish to hang us.

Washington, D.C., is too far gone to salvage. Admit it! Washington is a cesspool, a landfill, and a putrid pond of corruption and duplicity. Neither the Republican nor Democratic Party will ever allow a principled constitutionalist to become its Presidential nominee. No matter whom we elect as President, the beat toward Big-Government socialism and one-world internationalism will go on without interruption. Big Government scalawags own the entire federal system, including Big Media, Big Business, Big Labor, Big Religion, and Big Special Interest Groups. They are all feeding at the government teat.

Therefore, it is absolutely obligatory that freedom-minded Americans refocus their attention to electing State legislators, governors, judges and sheriffs who will fearlessly defend their God-given liberties. And, as plainly and emphatically as I know how to say it, I am telling you: ONLY THE STATES CAN DEFEND OUR LIBERTY NOW! And awakening to this reality means we will have to completely readjust our thinking and priorities.

It means awakening to the fact that Glenn Beck, Sean Hannity, and Bill O'Reilly (and the rest of Big Media's talking heads) are, for the most part, irrelevant to providing real solutions to the continuing loss of liberty. And, in truth, they are, more often than not, part of the problem, because they continue to focus our attention on Washington, D.C., and off the source of genuine solution, which lies with the states drawing a constitutional line in the sand for freedom. Good grief! Beck and O'Reilly have recently even advocated for higher federal taxes! Yeah! That's a real solution: more power and money to Washington, D.C. Ughhh!

Instead of getting all worked up about what Glenn Beck says or what Sarah Palin says or what CFR member and Big Government neocon Newt Gingrich says, start paying attention to what your State legislators and candidates are saying.

If we had more State legislators such as Washington State's Matthew Shea; Georgia's Bobby Franklin; Pennsylvania's Sam Rohrer; New Hampshire's Dan Itse; Michigan's Paul Opsommer; Oklahoma's Randy Brogdon, Sally Kern and Charles Key; Montana's Rick Jore, Greg Hinkle, and Joel Boniek; Tennessee's Susan Lynn; South Carolina's Michael Pitts and Lee Bright; Missouri's Jim Guest and Cynthia Davis; and sheriffs such as South Carolina's Ray Nash, Arizona's Richard Mack and Joe Arpaio, Montana's Jay Printz and Shane Harrington, etc., it wouldn't matter what those nincompoops inside the Beltway do. The federal government cannot violate your rights and steal your freedoms without the consent and approbation of your State government..

Folks, let's get down to where the rubber meets the road: the reason we are in the miserable mess we are in is because the states have--either wittingly or unwittingly--ceded their authority and independence to Washington, D.C. Therefore, it is now critical that states reclaim their authority--authority that is duly granted them under the US Constitution.

All of us who call ourselves conservatives or constitutionalists or libertarians (who, no doubt, compose a majority, especially in "red" states) need to retake their State governments. Elect a governor who knows how to say "No" to the federal government. Elect a State legislature that knows how to say "No" to Washington, D.C. Elect sheriffs and State judges who understand the Constitution, State sovereignty, and the principles of freedom--and who are courageous enough to defend those sacred principles in the face of attempted federal usurpation.

The truth is, for all intents and purposes, we could turn off television completely and be in no worse shape. And newspapers are no better. The vast majority of them blatantly support and promote Big Government. As Mark Twain said, "If you don't read the newspaper, you are uninformed; if you do read the newspaper, you are misinformed."

With Big Media, it's all about Washington politics. Period. For the most part, the conservative-liberal/Republican-Democrat paradigm is nothing but a distraction at best, and a scam at worst, to keep all of us safely on the federal reservation, where we are without hope or recourse to # 2010 Election Secrets: How to Regain Control Over the Scam!

The election process is a mystery to most people... kept that way by party leaders who maintain control over who is involved and the party agenda. Case in point: Ron Paul's running for the Presidency. From the beginning, even though he was running Republican, he was marginalized, and even the Republican party in Archuleta County went to great lengths (some claim illegal) to prevent him from being on the ballot, or reaching the primaries. Is this the kind of chicanery we want from the two party "illusions of choice?"

There is something we can all do at the local level to elect a constitutionalist (one who will uphold the supreme law of the land), but a quick course in the politics of primaries is in order.

There are 3141 counties in the United States. Each of these counties are divided into neighborhood precincts, which are located in relation to the population and where you live.

Next year, the voters in each precinct will elect their neighborhood "Precinct Executive." Democrats elect Democrat Precinct Executives, and Republicans elect Republican Precinct Executives.

Most of us have been unaware of this vote, which goes largely uncontested in the spring primaries. What this means is that anyone can run for this position, with only a handful of signatures necessary to be placed on the ballot.

There is a movement called "Wag the Dog 2010," (<http://www.wagthedog2010.com>) that is leading the way to elect only 300,000-400,000+ Precinct Executives. THAT IS ALL THAT IS NECESSARY TO RESTORE OUR COUNTRY TO A CONSTITUTIONAL REPUBLIC.

.There are millions of Tea Party members, millions of 912ers, millions who are Ron Paul supporters (remember Ron Paul... the guy who warned everyone in the election process of pending economic troubles... and was ignored?)

With that many people alert to what is happening to our nation and political parties, we should easily be able to establish 3 or 4 hundred thousand people in this position.

Now, there's another little secret that virtually no one knows about, but is critical to the process. One month after the 2010 primary for each state, the "County Precinct Organizational Meeting" takes place where they elect the "County Party Leaders." This is the meeting they do NOT want you to know about.

If the potential party leaders refuse to take a pledge or oath to support the constitution (such as through oathkeepers.org), we replace them all. All this has a great deal to do with how votes are counted (by computer, or hand counted), and we should be greatly concerned about this potential to defraud us all out of our vote. Go to youtube.com and search for "South Carolina, Super Tuesday and Ron Paul" for a 10 minute college course on this.

Party leaders determine Congressional candidates and local candidates, who the State party leaders are, and then the State party leaders decide on the National party leaders.

The whole process is kept quiet, and only those who believe they are the elite of their party usually know about any of this. You can change this by simply reading the facts about the process and how to get involved with your group and neighborhood.

<http://theprecinctproject.wordpress.com/> is a good source for detailed information on this process. It isn't too early to begin taking steps to prepare a strategy for demanding constitutional leaders in our local counties.

The local Sheriff election will be a primary target for establishing a constitutional Sheriff with help from Sheriff Mack, working with over 900 2010 Sheriff elections across the country.

If you've ever wanted to make a difference, then join these efforts. Stay tuned to SWFP.

(1) the collection of information does not display a valid control number assigned by the Director in accordance with this subchapter; or

(2) the agency fails to inform the person who is to respond to the collection of information that such person is not required to respond to the collection of information unless it displays a valid control number.

(b) The protection provided by this section may be raised in the form of a complete defense, bar, or otherwise at any time during the agency administrative process or judicial action applicable thereto."

Have YOU ever been "informed" by the IRS that you are "not required to respond to the collection of information unless it displays a valid control number" regarding the 1040 form?

You see, the whole "income tax" system is so full of legal holes, full of fraud and deceit, coercion and threats, that any one of these issues, (and there are many MORE) could stop the IRS dead in its tracks for most Americans.

Further more, the IRS also has NO jurisdiction in ANY state or local business... because it is a "federal" (as they claim) agency, and the Federal government (corporation) has NO authority over the States OR you in regard to "income taxes." This applies to their own territory and their own employees. (If you didn't read the article "United States Corporate Takeover..." in last issue, get it online because it will help you understand this beast).

Now... don't misunderstand the game or the war... we ALWAYS answer the IRS or any agency of the corporate beast, but we simply do it with "ABC, 123." That is, we ask them to PROVE their standing... PROVE their law... PROVE that you are what they say you are... a "taxpayer," that there is a law MAKING you liable for "income taxes," or that you even HAVE legal "income." You can't be something because they say you are. There MUST be a law... a statute... SOMETHING to MAKE you a "taxpayer," and MAKE you "liable," and it CAN'T conflict with the Constitution.

Have you ever seen anything that does this? Have you ever PROVEN that you OWE "income" taxes? We have the Constitutional RIGHT to receive answers, and the IRS' own code states this although they will ignore these questions. At least you can show that you asked them if a battle heats up. Remember, they thrive on threats and fear, but the law is completely against them.

We are allowing a bully that we are a hundred times bigger than, kick us around and demand money from us. The LAW is on our side, and if we all wake up to this truth, we can collectively tell the corporate federal government to drop dead, and put it BACK into its cage... and try them in a court of law, and convict them all for treason and racketeering against the American people.

Yes, this takes a little courage to stand against the tyrant "goliath," but all it takes is simply understanding the issues, the laws, and then taking action by standing on the laws we have on our side. It is only scary when you don't know what the laws actually say. Once you see them, and see the IRS for what it is, THEN you are empowered and encouraged, and at the crossroads where you either continue down the slavery road, or you join with thousands of others who are understanding this scam for what it is, and saying "NO MORE" to it.

Those who are still asleep... those who are in denial... those who still worship government and Obama's salvation wagon... then you have your masters to follow. The rest of us? Freedom and truth, or we fight back.

The best way to do this is to educate yourself on the actual laws. Is it worth it to take the time to investigate this whole issue to learn that you've been enslaved all these years, and your hard earned money stolen under pretense of law? If you don't act on your rights and the law, then you've caved in to the servant... are being held hostage by the very servant you hired to serve and protect you.

Don't believe any of this? PROVE IT WRONG. Claim the huge rewards available for anyone who can do that. If you can read a book, and add one and one, then you can understand the simple facts and case law that spells out the facts for you. Believe your own eyes. Challenge your CPA, or ANY attorney you know with those questions, MAKE them PROVE it.

Investigate Tom Cryer, attorney, who just won against the IRS on some of these issues. Don't let intimidation or fear stop you from securing your rights under the Constitution or laws of the land. There is strength in numbers. Don't take ANYONE'S word for this... read the laws and case laws yourself. PROVE that you owe "income" taxes. Know WHO you are, and defend yourself and your family and friends. We MUST work against this monumental financial scam that has been stealing our money since 1913, in conjunction with the Federal Reserve.

If begging, pleading, even presenting actual laws and court cases on this and many other things won't move us to action to proving all things, then we deserve what we are getting and far worse that will come because we did NOTHING to change it. We are allowing others to "change" us and our lives, to control us, to manipulate us, and bleed us dry of wealth so we cannot stop them even if we wanted to at some later time. The time to act is NOW. We have EVERYTHING going for us, but if we do nothing, we will only get more of the same... and worse to come.

Climategate Scam - Wealth Redistribution!

Those so-called "scientists" at East Anglia University Climate Research Center concealed far more than tree-ring data as John Rogan insists (Journal, Dec 17th). Rather than make available the mountain of data used to prove their case, they shredded those documents to prevent us from finding out they were fudging the numbers to make it appear that the globe is warming while it's actually cooling.

Their mission, like all the others pushing the global-warming scam, was to convince us we have to give up our political and economic freedom to solve this "problem".

Hillary has announced that American taxpayers are prepared to cough up 100 billion dollars every year to spread around among 3rd world countries to "fight greenhouse emissions". It's all about spreading the wealth, a concept embraced by Karl Marx, Barack Obama and other fringe leftists.

In case you haven't noticed, Copenhagen, where the climate summit is being held, is enduring the first severe winter storm they've seen in the last fourteen years. They're finally going to have a white Christmas.

It's entertaining to watch the cool-aid drinkers trying to minimize the devastating effect of the release of thousands of emails between those "scientists" confessing that the globe isn't warming and wondering how they can cover it up.

They had to suppress data gathered by over 3000 sono-buoys scattered all over the Pacific that show the surface water temperatures are steadily dropping.

Seventeen years ago, hundreds of atmospheric scientists at the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro appealed to the UN-sponsored IPCC to end their fraudulent campaign and submit to the realities of sound science. The UN ignored them. The UN has gone in the opposite direction in spite of the lack of honest, accurate evidence because they were on a mission.

That mission hasn't changed.

Have we lost the American Spirit?

I sit here reading the various website's of the "to date," 2010 candidate's, and I still fail to see any sign of a plan, or beginning of an answer to the issue's that face us, and those issue's that will slam into us due to the acts of our representative's. Many blog's and editorial comments profess each candidate with praise, courage and insight, but then I read a final sentence that cries to communities' to stay strong within the party. I also see that even the Tea Party has given something of its principals and endorsed major party candidate's.

Something hit me along the way through my morning surfing, maybe it is the Christmas season spirit, maybe it is just a longing of times past that I missed, like seeing carolers, or just going to a school Christmas play and watching the result of a child's imagination, or a teacher's drive to bring out the best in our future generation.

The end result is witnessing the loss of who we are and what we can be as a society of people, where at one time we came together and fought for freedom in several wars that needed America to tip a balance and save a few foreign nations from devastation and a genocide. The last few decades have seen our government destroy the fabric of democracy in every aspect of our country's livelihood, from the national debt, to health care, and yet we continue to serve and allow party politics to rule our lives with no hope of seeing the light of their actions.

I hope and pray that we can once again see a time where the Norman Rockwell era will rise once again, where the hardships and stress of American's will be seen by Congress and our President for what they are, and that is the result of government action's themselves. The answer lies within our hearts, our compassion and our common sense that tells us to join together as American's and believe that nothing is impossible, including our ability to find worthy leaders instead of what is placed before us as a choice of candidates by the political parties.

We must join together in our election's, as we would join together in the Christmas spirit. Merry Christmas Colorado, and God Bless.

Politics as Usual

Jim price (Journal, Dec 1st) seems to think that those who don't like what Obama is doing to this country are some kind of a threat. He says those who oppose the dismantling of our republic by this administration are about "to take up arms and try to go up against the Constitution".

Relax, Jim we're concerned that Obama is the one that's going up against the Constitution. He attacked it saying "The Constitution is a fundamentally flawed document and needs to be rewritten". He complained that it's "a list of negative liberties that prevents the government from doing things to us". That's exactly what it was designed to do. The Constitution protects us from him and he doesn't like it.

He's disappointed that the Supreme Court is "not being activist", that ... the Supreme Court has never ventured into the area of wealth redistribution", a communist concept championed by Karl Marx.

Amendment to Health Care Bill

The Senate health committee voted 12-11 in favor of a two-page amendment courtesy of Republican Tom Coburn that would require all Members and their staffs to enroll in any new government-run health plan. It took me less than a minute to sign up to require our congressmen and senators to drink at the same trough!

Three cheers for Congressman John Fleming of Louisiana !

Congressman John Fleming ( Louisiana physician) has proposed an amendment that would require congressmen and senators to take the same healthcare plan they force on us (under proposed legislation they are curiously exempt).

Congressman Fleming is encouraging people to go on his Website and sign his petition (very simple - just first, last and email). I have immediately done just that at:

<http://fleming.house.gov/index.cfm?sectionid=55&sectiontree=29,55>

Please urge as many people as you can to do the same!

If Congress forces this on the American people, the Congressmen should have to accept the same level of health care for themselves and their families. To do otherwise is the height of hypocrisy!

Trillions being Hidden from the Public by Corrupt Government Officials

If you are not familiar with the CAFRs (comprehensive annual financial reports), this is a real eye opener. It is difficult to determine if this is the most criminal behavior of our governments because they are guilty of massive crimes on every level. If it is not, it is at the top. I urge you to watch this 2 hr 15 min video of Walter Burien who has been broadcasting this activity for years. Thank God for the patriots who are holding the governments' proverbial "feet" to the fire. Accountability and responsibility go hand in hand.

Recently, the NYC District Attorneys Office was caught with "unregistered" accounts of over $150 million dollars.

Since that revelation, a total of over $250 million in "unregistered" accounts has been uncovered scattered throughout the city's agencies. It's also what is known as a "limited hang out."

In other words, it's just the tip of the iceberg. It's the part of the story they're willing to share to "immunize" the public against the scope of real story.

Keep in mind NYC's quarter of a billion dollar slush fund is just a *partial* number for just ONE city in just ONE state.

How many states, counties and cities are there in the US? Over 54,000 cities, counties, states, agencies, etc. Every single one of them has been playing this game (it started after WW II) and so has the federal government.

The government, at all levels, is running a very simple financial con game. If something produces revenue - like bridges, highways, ports, or successful investments etc - that revenue goes into off budget slush funds.

If it costs money, it's charged to the public via taxes. This is being done at all levels of government - including state, county, city, and school districts.

The total "off budget" funds held by the various governments amount to trillions of dollars. The real accounting is contained in what's called Comprehensive Annual Financial Reports (CAFR) which are not only not made available to the public, their very existence is never mentioned by the news media. Why?

Trillions of dollars pays for a lot of corruption. Every time an elected official stands before you and tells you the government is out of money and they have to raise taxes, he or she is lying through their teeth...

Houston Lawyer Michael Minns beats IRS on a 30 year old case

Over a 30 year span of time, the IRS willfully and continually deceived not only 1800 pilots who were involved in an investment program, but the courts themselves.

It was at this point, one of the Pilots, Captain Gary Tjossem, succeeded in his ten year pursuit of the most winning tax attorney in the country, Michael Minns. After going over the tortured history of the case, Minns agreed to take over.

After one year Minns filed a brief with the Ninth Circuit Court, which resulted in the finding of fraud, Dixon vs. Commissioner 316 F.3d 1041. At oral argument (on tape and available by order at this paper - brief of Minns also available by this paper) Minns argued that Fraud on the Court had occurred as early as 1986. The decision, written by Judge Michael Daly Hawkins came down on January, 17, 2003 in which he rules: "The taxpayers have clearly and convincingly demonstrated Fraud on the court and are entitled to relief."

It was a landmark decision. The court sent it back down to the Tax Court with orders that all the pilots be placed in the same place as the Thompsons to wit: "on terms equivalent to those provided in the settlement agreement with Mr. Thompson."

This case didn't stop there as the IRS continued its deceptive actions, a story that can be read via our Resource Page 22, for the actual case.

Obama's Christmas tree graced by Chairman Mao, transvestite

Obama's "Christmas" tree appears to be a mockery of Christianity and what America stands for. Ornaments on the tree in the Green Room of the White House included a picture of Chairman Mao, picture of Mt. Rushmore with Obama's picture superimposed with the others and a transvestite. Obama also declared publicly in Turkey last April, "We do not consider ourselves a Christian nation."

Of course, Obama's "Obamanation" is NOT Christin, but is Muslim, and he's working to allow this radical religious belief system and people to take control of America.

Are we waking up yet?

That message is simple: Stop funding socialism. When they refuse to stop backing the major opponents of Liberty, liberal media outlets and socialist leaning elected officials, then we proceed to financially cripple them.

2004 Kenyan-born Obama Article surfaces

A web archived Sunday Standard article dated June 27, 2004, and titled "Kenyan-born Obama all set for U.S. Senate" was recently discovered on the web archive website. It appears this article was news in 2004, but somehow everyone forgot this little "insignificant" fact that was published.

It is interesting to note that shortly after this article came out, the Sunday Standard did a retraction of the story stating they were wrong about his place of birth and corrected it to say Hawaii.

How much more evidence is needed to break people out of their matrix?

"Do Only Real Americans Live in Wyoming?"

By Ron Ewart, President - National Association of Rural Landowners

Dawn was breaking over the Circle P in Western Wyoming. The Sun had not yet broken above the East horizon but the growing light cast an eerie orange glow on last night's fresh snow that had put an ermine blanket on the Tetons. A few puffy clouds lingered at the top of the peaks but would soon disappear from the Sun's rising heat. The sky was not yet blue. The trees on the hillside had already turned to several shades of yellow and orange but appeared in dark, grey tones because of the low light. Winter was just around the corner.

The valley below the ranch house was still shrouded in a low ground fog. A horse's rump without any legs and a hundred fence-post tops in a row appeared above the fog, like a pastel picture only half painted.

John Portal stretched his arms into the air as he drank in the morning scene from the picture window of their ranch house. As he slowly lowered his arms, Jenny, John's wife, still in her robe, snuggled under one of his arms in a sideways hug and shared the beauty of the new day that was just now presenting itself to the Portal's of Wyoming. John and Jenny could but linger for a short while in the rapture of the moment. There was much work to be done before the Sun would set again on the Circle P. Jenny broke away from their hug to wake up their two children and then headed for the kitchen. John started towards the bathroom to shave and get dressed.

John and Jenny were both fifth generation ranchers. John had inherited their thousand-acre spread from a long-line of independent, self-reliant, tough pioneer stock Portals, born and bred from the days of the old West. John and Jenny met in high school and a bond between them was forged almost instantly. Jenny was the daughter of another fifth generation Wyoming rancher. Both were the product of the American free spirit, who daily stared adversity directly in the face and pressed forward, no matter what was in their way.

Smoke was already billowing from the stack on the bunk house. The cowboys of the Circle P were getting ready for a long day in the saddle. A good portion of the herd was in the upper pastures and had to be brought down to the lower valley. The upper pastures would soon be covered in several feet of snow and they could lose part of the herd should they delay the drive much longer.

Not one person on the Circle P was giving any thought whatsoever to what was going on in the Capitol of Wyoming, much less Washington DC. There was a job to be done, a nation to be fed and no one in either Capitol would or could help John and Jenny with that job. If anything, the people in those capitols, with their "finger" on the legislative trigger, could only make John and Jenny's job that much harder because of the draconian environmental laws they have or would pass, that only affected rural landowners and the food producers of America. Each environmental law these arrogant "suits" passed, only drove the cost of food higher and made it more difficult for the food producers to stay in business.

John and Jenny had to rely on their skill, accumulated experience, knowledge and inherited wisdom and they could only hope that would be enough to save them from the ravages of what Mother Nature could throw at them, without warning, at any time. Hot dry spells, gully washers, wind storms, long snowy winters and low crop yields were and are, an annual reality ..... anyone of which could wipe out the meager profits they hoped to achieve each year ..... anyone of which could make it difficult to pay the bank loans they take out between crop and herd payoffs.

The characteristics bred into the John's and Jenny's of Wyoming, living free, along with all the other men and women in all the states who feed this nation, are the backbone of her soul. They are the front line against the raw fury of the weather and the land that try to thwart these brave Americans from completing the vital work they do. When they lose, they endure. When they win, they share.

These people do not have to be plucked off of roof tops after a blizzard, a wind storm, or a tornado. If in trouble they help each other. If one is down, the others come to their rescue. When times are good, they celebrate. When times are bad, they get to work. FEMA is an acronym for which there is no meaning.

All other Americans, along with millions of men, women and children around the world, owe their very existence to the perseverance, self-reliance and independence of those who choose to challenge nature and extract from it the sustenance, without which none of us could live.

So, no, not all real Americans live in Wyoming, but it is the hard, tough, independent countenance of those who choose to make their lives on the high plateau of a wild land, that carry the scars of battle with nature and proudly wear the badge of liberty at any cost.

They thought they could live their lives without interference from their government as the Constitution promises, but they were wrong. They must now face the enemy who will not leave them alone. In the end, could a bunch of educated idiots, dressed in dark suits, in a far off city, inhabited by a crowd of dependent ner-do-wells, be any tougher to tackle than what Mother Nature has been throwing at them for their entire life?

Should the American ranchers and farmers collectively turn their attention away from the weather and the land for awhile and towards the government that now haunts them, the government would be wise to put their ears to the ground and listen for the hoof beats of an angry four horsemen. That is of course, unless the American rancher and farmer have not been bought off by that government, using the money from the public treasury, like so many other segments of our once-free nation, who have similarly been bought off. We can only hope not.

To all politicians and bureaucrats who mistakenly believe that you ARE the law, or ABOVE the law, whether it be the ranchers and farmers of the Western states, or the patriots who live urban or rural, millions of us are coming for you to explain to you that you ARE NOT the law, nor are you ABOVE the law and your authority comes from the states and the people. And further, you are obligated to abide by the Constitution to which you swear on solemn oath to preserve, protect and defend, so help you God and we intend to hold you to that oath, or else.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: The above story is fictional, the strong message of freedom it delivers, is not.

States Can Nullify Unconstitutional Federal Laws!

Kevin Gutzman, author of “The Politically Incorrect Guide to the Constitution” discusses with Judge Napolitano how the Federal Government has gone from 17 “unique, discrete” powers it has, to the thousands today.
The Federal Government has slowly stolen most every area it now tries to control, but States are fighting back, along with the People.
The Solicitor General was asked in the 1990’s if he knew of even one area of American life the Federal Government would have NO constitutional authority to interfere with. The SG stood speechless and couldn’t give an answer.

Why Does Interpol Need Immunity from American Law?

You just can’t make up how brazen this crowd is. One week ago, (December 16, 2009) President Obama quietly signed an executive order that makes an international police force immune from the restraints of American law.
Interpol is the shorthand for the International Criminal Police Organization. It was established in 1923 and operates in about 188 countries. By executive order 12425, issued in 1983, President Reagan recognized Interpol as an international organization and gave it some of the privileges and immunities customarily extended to foreign diplomats. Interpol, however, is also an active law-enforcement agency, so critical privileges and immunities (set forth in Section 2(c) of the International Organizations Immunities Act) were withheld.
Specifically, Interpol’s property and assets remained subject to search and seizure, and its archived records remained subject to public scrutiny under provisions like the Freedom of Information Act. Being constrained by the Fourth Amendment, FOIA, and other limitations of the Constitution and federal law that protect the liberty and privacy of Americans is what prevents law-enforcement and its controlling government authority from becoming tyrannical.
On Wednesday, however, for no apparent reason, President Obama issued an executive order removing the Reagan limitations. That is, Interpol’s property and assets are no longer subject to search and confiscation, and its archives are now considered inviolable. This international police force (whose U.S. headquarters is in the Justice Department in Washington) will be unrestrained by the U.S. Constitution and American law while it operates in the United States and affects both Americans and American interests outside the United States.
Interpol works closely with international tribunals (such as the International Criminal Court — which the United States has refused to join because of its sovereignty surrendering provisions, though top Obama officials want us in it). It also works closely with foreign courts and law-enforcement authorities.

Why would we elevate an international police force above American law? Why would we immunize an international police force from the limitations that constrain the FBI and other American law-enforcement agencies? Why is it suddenly necessary to have, within the Justice Department, a repository for stashing government files which, therefore, will be beyond the ability of Congress, American law-enforcement, the media, and the American people to scrutinize?

Editor’s Note: Does the word “Duh” mean anything to anyone? What this is is simple: Obama is supporting a domestic terrorist organization that has immunity to prosecution for any “crimes” against Americans, such as illegal searches and seizures of property and information, wiretapping, kidnapping of “dissidents” or anyone who is a threat to the corporate beast.
This essentially is a free ticket out of jail for this organization, and anyone can disappear and no one could do anything about it. In fact, one report states that “President Obama has ordered that all Dissident US citizens be ‘effectively disappeared’ by March 2, 2010 as fears of civil war continue growing in that fast collapsing country.”
This means rounding up dissidents, or anyone who might be a threat to the status quo, and remove them from the continent, and to international prisons, without ANY constitutional rights whatsoever.

Secret CAFR Accounts hide billions from Citizens

Recently, the NYC District Attorneys Office was caught with "unregistered" accounts of over $150 million dollars.
Since that revelation, a total of over $250 million in "unregistered" accounts has been uncovered scattered throughout the city's agencies.
Note: This in only a preliminary, and very incomplete, calculation. It's also what is known as a "limited hang out." In other words, it's just the tip of the iceberg.

It's the part of the story they're willing to share to "immunize" the public against the scope of real story.
Keep in mind NYC's quarter of a billion dollar slush fund is just a *partial* number for just ONE city in just ONE state.
How many states, counties and cities are there in the US? Over 54,000 cities, counties, states, agencies, etc. Every single one of them has been playing this game (it started after WW II) and so has the federal government.
<http://cafrman.com/> - Video:
<http://www.brasschecktv.com/page/512.html>
The government, at all levels, is running a very simple financial con game.
If something produces revenue - like bridges, highways, ports, or successful investments etc - that revenue goes into off budget slush funds.
If it costs money, it's charged to the public via taxes.
This is being done at all levels of government - including state, county, city, and school districts.
The total "off budget" funds held by the various governments amount to trillions of dollars.
The real accounting is contained in what's called Comprehensive Annual Financial Reports (CAFR) which are not only not made available to the public, their very existence is never mentioned by the news media.
Why?
Trillions of dollars pays for a lot of corruption.
Every time an elected official stands before you and tells you the government is out of money and they have to raise taxes, he or she is lying through their teeth.

America's Secret ICE Castles

A recent expose on the Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agency reveals some startling and disturbing information regarding secret detention camps within city borders. Hidden among normal businesses are at least 186 unlisted and unmarked “subfield offices” where hundreds to thousands of immigration detainees are being held, often in severe conditions akin to the Gulags of Russia.
"If you don't have enough evidence to charge someone criminally but you think he's illegal,

WHAT if the president of the United States is not constitutionally eligible to serve? Is it possible that a straightforward criterion was overlooked during a long, grueling, expensive campaign? Why are so many questions about something so simple still going unanswered? "A Question Of Eligibility" goes where no other documentary has dared to go in seeking the answers to those questions, including one that millions of Americans are asking: "Why won't Barack Obama release publicly the long-form birth certificate he claims to have from the state of Hawaii?"
In this video, you will hear from four experts on the subject: Dr. Jerome Corsi, author of the New York Times No. 1 bestseller “The Obama Nation”; Orly Taitz, the Southern California lawyer who has led the legal fight to secure the evidence of Barack Obama's eligibility; Alan Keyes, a third-party presidential candidate in 2008 and the man who challenged Obama for the Illinois U.S. Senate seat that served as a springboard to his presidential ambitions; and Janet Porter, radio talk-show host and political activist who has championed this critical and threatening constitutional issue. # Help Eliminate the IRS Fraud

By Jeffrey A. Dickstein - Attorney at Law

Would a 15-30% increase in your pay check every month make your New Year happier? That would be the result of the United States Supreme Court deciding to hear the case of Hirmer v. United States, Case No. 09-651.

Claudia and Mark Hirmer, mother and father of six children, are on criminal trial with eleven other people:

What they did was sell tickets to attend a several day seminar where people, just like you, peacefully assembled to hear speakers on a wide variety of topics. One such topic was the 17,000 official, certified, national and state documents that conclusively prove the income tax is a massive fraud. What they are charged with is conspiracy to defraud the government, conspiracy to commit wire fraud, conspiracy to commit money laundering, wire fraud, and income tax evasion. Conviction could result in more than a hundred years in prison.

The Hirmers filed a motion to dismiss the indictment and supported it with the actual official, certified, documents. The district court, unable to assail the validity of the documents and what they prove, refused to consider the documentation. This refusal is now before the United States Supreme Court. All the court documents, including the uncontested proof of the government fraud, are here. Unlike the government, we have nothing to hide.

UNDER THE FIRST AMENDMENT TO OUR CONSTITUTION, DISCLOSING GOVERNMENT FRAUD CANNOT BE MADE A CRIME . . . UNLESS YOU ALLOW IT TO HAPPEN.

The Supreme Court will decide on January 15th, 2010, whether to hear the Hirmer's case or whether they will continue the government cover up of the theft of your hard earned money in utter disregard for our continued freedom and prosperity. You have until then to act.

Do you want to stop the theft of your money? Do you want to preserve your right not to be put on trial for spreading the truth? Do you want to preserve your right to defend yourself from bogus allegations you are a criminal? Freedom of speech is so important to our continued well being that our Founding Fathers made it the 1st Amendment. Will preserving that freedom be your first priority of the New Year?

FightBackNow.us is your one stop destination to discover the truth and take simple steps to demand the Supreme Court hear these critical issues. Do it for yourself, do it for your kids and grand kids, and do it for your Country.

FightBackNow.us

This is important. Please visit the website, spend a few minutes educating and convincing yourself of the truth, and then notify the media, the Supreme Court and Congress that we will no longer tolerate what passes for justice in America. We've made it simple to let your voice be heard in a number of ways; please ring the bell of freedom. It only takes a couple of minutes of your time.

And pass this on to your friends and family. "Fools," said I, "you do not know Silence like a cancer grows."—Simon and Garfunkle.

Editor's Note:

We have written at length in the Southwest Free Press on the illegalities of the IRS and Federal Reserve systems, among other fraud being exposed almost daily. This is but another huge mound of evidence which supports the facts that the IRS is a complete fraud in virtually every aspect of their existence.

Jeff Dickstein has been fighting these battles for a number of years now, and this is a prime opportunity to pass this on as far and wide as you possibly can.

If you haven't already done so, begin researching the evidence for yourself. We've listed many sources for the information in precious issues of the Free Press available in our resource library located at southwestfreepress.com. Also look at our resource P. 22 in this issue for documentation sources.

Unless you like paying money you don't owe, and you like being a slave to a corrupt system, then you have a responsibility to step up to the plate and begin DOING SOMETHING.

Complaining changes nothing. Arguing against the problems changes nothing. They are tranquilizers that makes us think we have actually done something because we talked about it and agree things are wrong. This is just self deception that allows us to go back to sleep, or avoid the harder steps such as educating ourselves on the facts and then acting on them.

The momentum is in our favor... the IRS is under attack like never before. All it would take is for Americans to put the law in their arsenal of weapons, and then stand on that law. If we fail to use the weapons our founding fathers and predecessors have given us, and willingly embrace the lies we've been taught all our lives, then we have no excuse for the loss of freedoms and finances. In fact, we are PAYING for both.

The refusal of the district court to consider the documents is called "Fraud on the Court," and is a violation of precedent case laws from many previous court cases. Previous case law MUST be considered.

The primary function of the independent juror is not, as many think, to dispense punishment to fellow citizens accused of breaking various laws, but rather to protect fellow citizens from tyrannical abuses of power by government.

The Constitution guarantees you the right to trial by jury. This means that government must bring its case before a jury of The People if government wants to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property. Jurors can say no to government tyranny by refusing to convict.

Have you taken a little time to review your power as a Jurist? Do you KNOW what it is and how to use it? Would YOU want an educated jurist in YOUR trial, who would be there to protect YOUR rights and freedoms from corrupt courts and others? To Obtain your own personal Jury Handbook, and other Jury documents, just go to our resource website at <http://southwestfreepress.com/resource-library.html>. This will provide all the ammo you need to take back liberty and protect yourself and your neighbors. Don't let this RIGHT and DUTY escape your grasp. actually change anything.

Ladies and Gentlemen, freedom in America has only one hope: the resurrection of State independence and sovereignty. Fortunately, there are rumblings around the country that this revival has already begun.

The last time I checked, some 38 states have introduced Tenth Amendment resolutions--or some form of federal nullification proposals--in their State assemblies. To follow the status of various states' rights initiatives, keep an eye on these two web sites. Web site one and Web site two.

If conservatives/constitutionalists/libertarians would spend as much time and energy influencing elections and policies at the State and local levels as they attempt to do at the national level, we could turn this floundering ship of state around. If he had the support and backing of his State's legislature and sheriffs, imagine what ONE constitutionalist governor could do. I get goose bumps thinking about it!

Imagine a State with its own financial system--its own currency, banks, regulatory agencies, etc. Imagine a State with its own militia--under the authority of the governor only--completely independent from any responsibility to the President or federal government. Imagine a State with an education system unfettered by the federal Department of Education. Imagine a State where the BLM, the FBI, the ATF, and the DEA had to actually submit to State law. Imagine a State with no federal bribes, or federal "funding" as it is commonly called--except as is constitutionally constructed (with no strings attached). Imagine a State with its own health care system. Imagine a State with no FEMA--UNLESS INVITED IN. Imagine a State that would not allow Washington's spooks to unlawfully spy on law-abiding citizens. Imagine a State that actually had a say in how much land the federal government could claim for its own. Imagine a State where citizens never had to worry about a national ID act. Imagine a State that would protect the right of its citizens to freely express their faith in the public square. Imagine a State that did not demand that its farmers put RFID computer chips in their livestock. Imagine a State that would let you drill a well without reporting it to the federal government. And for some really fun mind games, imagine a State that would be willing to challenge the constitutionality and legitimacy of the direct income tax and the IRS. All of this--and more--is attainable with a constitutionalist State government committed to protecting the liberties of its citizens.

I repeat: freedom in America has only one hope: the resurrection of State independence and sovereignty. In the US Constitution, our Founding Fathers sagaciously reserved to State governments their independence and sovereignty, knowing that they had the awesome responsibility of being the last (and greatest) vanguard of liberty for the American people. They never intended or imagined that the states would ever become a doormat for the central government (which is what most of them have become).

In this regard, the states that are proposing State sovereignty resolutions should immediately band together to overturn the 17th Amendment, because this amendment strips the states of their constitutional powers by turning US senators into Washington insiders, who are more beholden to Washington interests than the interests and well-being of the states that they are supposed to represent.

If the 71% of voters who are angry with the federal government would channel their energies into electing constitutionalist governors and State legislators, their anger might actually produce real and lasting change. As it is, efforts to "reform" Washington, D.C., are like trying to teach a hog to take a bath. Instead, let the hog wallow in the mud, but make sure the mudhole stays small; don't let it spread to your back yard. And keeping that Washington mudhole small is the job of the states. And, in case you have not noticed, the mudhole has already grown to the point that it's not just in your back yard; it's on your front porch and about to consume your whole house.

Americans will be held accountable for Government Corruption! - Jeff Maehr

It is so easy to bury our heads in the sand, pretend everything is “ok,” and to ignore the damage the U.S. government is doing Internationally. From wars, to faking gold bars, to creating a debt without our consent... it ALL leads to just ONE thing... The nations we are damaging, through economics, wars, failed policies, drug running (which the U.S. government is CHIEF)... the whole world KNOWS what our freedoms and Constitution have provided us, and yet, we, as a People, are ignoring our responsibility to rule our government.

OK... “So what,” some will say. “I have my money, my life... and I’m doing ok.” Well, friends, when the whole world looks at a people given such blessings as we have, such magnificent land, resources, freedoms and rights... and we ignore it, throwing away our inheritance... and we reek such havoc on other nations and economies out of greed, lust, complacency, apathy, fear... it is an impossibility that we will escape out of their hands.

In other words, for those of you still caught up in your football games, or whatever distractions... the world WILL hold We, the People, accountable for what our rogue government and traitor congress and administration and others are doing right this minute. We are saddling ourselves and our kids with a world never seen on this continent... and We, the People, will have it coming... unless we DO SOMETHING!

Obama's Nobel is unconstitutional-

By Joseph Farah, wnd.com

Many have questioned whether Barack Obama truly deserved the Nobel Peace Prize. That's not the purpose of this column.

As far as I am concerned, the Nobel ceased to have much in the way of honorific qualities after it was bestowed on such unsavory and unworthy candidates as Al Gore, Yasser Arafat, Jimmy Carter, Mikhail Gorbachev and Kofi Annan.

My concern about Barack Obama's acceptance of the Nobel Peace Prize is that it was patently unconstitutional. I guess that should surprise no one given Obama's penchant for unconstitutional activity. Yet, this one is flagrant, personal and, worst of all, petty.

Article I, Section 9, of the Constitution, known as the emolument clause, states: "And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust under them, shall, without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or foreign State. ..."

Most Americans may not realize, as I did not until very recently, that the Nobel commission is elected by the parliament of Norway. That means the peace prize is made by a commission representing the legislature of a foreign state. There's little question the award amounts to an emolument – at nearly $1.5 million and a priceless gold medal.

Back in 1902, the U.S. attorney general advised that even "a simple remembrance" qualified as an emolument – "any present of any kind whatever." In 1993, President Bill Clinton's legal counsel affirmed that finding and explained that the text of the clause does not limit "its application solely to foreign governments acting as sovereigns" – but even when foreign governments work through other devices and organizations.

When I first heard about this, I was somewhat mollified by the fact that Obama announced he would give the money to charity. But there are four big problems with that::

- * It's not his money to give away. If he files for a tax deduction for the prize money, as he surely will, it would reduce his income taxes by about a half-million dollars.
- * A federal statute states that if the president accepts a "tangible or intangible present" for more than a minimal value from any foreign government, the gift "shall become the property of the United States."
- * No mention was ever made of turning over the gold medal to charity or to the government of the United States.
- * He did not get the consent of the Congress of the United States.

Why is that last one so important? Because it's the law of the land. Some might suggest the current Congress would surely give Obama anything he wanted – and that's probably true. But that begs the question of why he didn't ask before accepting the gift. Did Obama ignore this constitutional provision because he didn't know about it? I don't think so. This is a man who has prided himself in having been a professor of constitutional law.

Did Obama ignore this constitutional provision because he did not want to appear to be obsequious to the Congress? I don't think so. This is a man who has prided himself on consensus building, respecting the separation of powers and running the most ethical administration in history.

Did Obama ignore this constitutional provision because he did not want to call attention to his actions and the fact that an act of Congress would be necessary for him to accept the emolument? Maybe. But why hasn't anyone in Congress raised the issue as a matter addressed quite clearly and in plain language by the Constitution?

Did Obama ignore this constitutional provision because he considers himself above the law and the Constitution and/or because he really wanted to benefit personally from the award? Maybe. Or did Obama ignore this constitutional provision, as he has so many others, because he actually seeks to undermine the foundational document of American government?

Greed? Ignorance? Pride? Intentional violation of the highest law in the land? What is the reason and rationale? Is it all of the above? Am I missing anything?

LaPlata County Resident Charges Fraud, Theft, Collusion and More-Part 1 - Jeff Maehr

Ray Robinette (67) began having problems approximately back in 2002 and he is yet to receive proper attention to continuing criminal activities against himself and his property, even after 10 years. The list is long, so we will be gradually addressing these incidents in future issues, starting from some most recent, to earlier episodes. Why do this?

Because Ray is just ONE of many LaPlata County Citizens who have contacted us on criminal elements within LaPlata County Sheriff's Department, the DA, possibly with County Commissioners acquiescence, as well as other government officials. This needs to be brought to the public's attention. Here is an example of the alleged ongoing assaults against Mr. Robinette, his property and his family: (a thousand+ pages of evidence available, much of which the Free Press has copies of).

Several family related individuals, along with Sheriff's Deputy Bobbie Fender, came onto his property, and cut a $8000 tram cable across a section of Vallecito Creek, from one section of his property to the other side across the river. When Ray called the Sheriff's department for help and to file complaints, 3 Sheriff deputies showed (names available) up and Ray provided proof of the cutting, in the presence of the three mentioned above, and the officers. Nothing was done... the entire issue was ignored, and no charges were brought, no follow-up on the complaint, no reparations, and apparently no officers were disciplined. Records available, including an in-office Sheriff's email showing Robinette would be charged with trespass if he drove on his legal access road to his own property. Deputy Fender's family placed a chain and 40 foot trash container across this road, barring access.

Robinettes have contacted the CBI on bringing criminal charges against LaPlata County Officials and these others, and they have established an "open" file, but were told they couldn't do anything till some of the very people involved asked them for help. Further Investigations ongoing. The Free Press will contact parties involved.

NOTICE to ALL Parties:

MISPRISION OF FELONY: U.S. CODE, TITLE 18, PART 1, CHAPTER 1, SECTION 4: "Whoever, having knowledge of the actual commission of a felony cognizable by a court of the United States, conceals and does not as soon as possible make known the same to some Judge or other person in civil or military authority under the United States, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

'2009 First Year of Global Governance'

1st president of EU announces the official goal - WorldNetDaily.com

In accepting his appointment as the first president of the European Union, Belgian Prime Minister Herman Van Rompuy announced that "global governance" is only way to address the crises that beset the planet.

"We're living through exceptionally difficult times – the financial crisis and its dramatic impact on employment and budgets, the climate crisis which threatens our very survival, a period of anxiety, uncertainty and lack of confidence," he said in his maiden press conference. "Yet these problems can be overcome through a joint effort between our countries. Two-thousand and nine is also the first year of global governance with the establishment of the G20 in the middle of the financial crisis. The climate conference in Copenhagen is another step toward the global management of our planet."

Lord Christopher Monckton, former science adviser to British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, previously warned the dangers of a U.N. treaty proposal promoted by President Obama would lead to world government. Now, the new leader of the EU has seemingly affirmed that as a goal.

The EU summit established under the Lisbon Treaty held a meeting attended by heads of state and government from 29 EU member countries and unanimously chose Van Rompuy as president.

Van Rompuy told reporters after the meeting that he will make EU unity a priority, adding that the most urgent issues are environmental protection and a stable job market.

He will resign as Belgian prime minister and assume the 30-month presidency from Jan. 1.

Former EU Trade Commissioner Catherine Ashton of the United Kingdom was also chosen as the EU's new foreign affairs chief.

Attention Archuleta County Citizens & Sheriff's Department.

The Southwest Free Press has received a number of reports that County Sheriff Pete Gonzalez has been consistently making statements that what we print about the Constitution, the roll of the Sheriff, and other items in the paper as being "not true," "wrong," etc.

OK... Here's what we propose: We will set a time and date for county residents to attend a debate where Pete can bring his constitutional experts, and law experts, and the Free Press will do the same. We will discuss any and all elements of the roll of a constitutional sheriff, using expert testimony from Sheriff Richard Mack's material, as well as other Constitutional Experts we are in touch with, as well as any other element of government meddling in our State and County affairs. If we are "wrong," he'll certainly be able to prove it, right?

Then, the citizens of Archuleta County can decide who they want for their Sheriff this November... someone who will defend them in all cases of unconstitutional abuse, or someone who rolls over and plays dead?

inauguration is in violation of the Constitution: taking over the banks and lending institutions, firing and hiring CEOs, telling the auto industry what kinds of cars they will build, creating an armed civilian security force answerable only to him, appointing "czars" who are not subject to congressional approval or oversight and giving them authority to micromanage every aspect of our lives. These are things done by Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, Mao, Castro and other despots and tyrants. Now they've come to America. You somehow misread the motives of citizens who alarmed by the trashing of the Constitution by this administration.

The signs are everywhere... no food!

Victory gardens, also called war gardens or food gardens for defense, were vegetable, fruit and herb gardens planted at private residences and public parks in United States, during World War I and World War II to reduce the pressure on the public food supply brought on by the war effort.

In addition to indirectly aiding the war effort these gardens were also considered a civil "morale booster" — in that gardeners could feel empowered by their contribution of labor and rewarded by the produce grown.

Making victory gardens become a part of daily life on the home front.

Those of us who keep up with the REAL news (not given on the TV and main stream media) have been alerted to the very serious possibility of food shortages in the near future.

This will of course be brought on by the idiotic governing body that is ruining everything. We all know of farmers being paid to not grow crops in order to increase trade relations with other nations, drought conditions all around the world, *****Catastrophic Fall in 2009 Global Food Production*****, and flooding brought on by climate controllers. We are at war once again. Our very survival is at stake, and food supply control is the final blow. We are learning about the detrimental effects of chemicals, GMO, and processing techniques that are harmful to us.

Even local organic growers are being taken down with bogus laws we are told will keep us from harmful products, but are designed to make more profit for the corporate entities who buy officials to create the laws and ignore the truth.

Things are much different today than they were back in the day when our forefathers lived. In that era, everyone had a garden in the yard just outside the house. Fresh food was grown and used by everyone. The James Madison of then was fond of something called Sea Kale (cabbage family) I hope to grow some this year to see what about it favored his tongue.

Today many have a problem growing our own gardens. We are busy working. We live in the cities and have no place to grow one. We are out of luck. At least until now. Here is some good news for those of you who can't grow your own food, or haven't been able to until now for whatever reason.

The ingenuity of some Americans still comes through in times of need. I expect this new little company and their idea to take off like a rocket. Now you can have your own garden no matter where you live. Twenty ninth floor of a New York sky scraper? No problem. Got a house three feet from the next one?

No problem. Working long hours and not able to attend the needs of a garden? No problem. What if you do have a small garden but not enough room or time to grow all you want or need? No problem.

Now you can have fresh, organically grown food, and choose what you grow, and watch it grow, and even have a guaranteed crop. This is beyond amazing, this is WONDERFUL.

To learn more about it go here - <http://myorganicacres.com/index.php?id=3097> and click on the box to the right of the little girl.

We are all looking for solutions to our many problems. I think this can be a big step in the right direction for many. Being able to grow your own foods and having access to a farmers market will save a ton of money for lots of folks.

SURVIVOR ..... Idaho Style

Due to the popularity of the Survivor shows, Idaho is planning to do its own, titled 'Survivor -Idaho Style.'

The contestants will start in Boise , travel over to Twin Falls and Idaho Falls. Then, they will head northwest to Salmon then over to Lewiston. From there they will proceed North to Moscow . The final leg will be back to Bois.

Each will be driving a pink Volvo with California license plates and a HUGE bumper sticker that reads: I'm gay. I'm a vegetarian. Beer is harmful to your health. Republicans suck. Obama is God. Deer hunting is murder, and I'm here to confiscate your guns.'

The first one that makes it back to Boise alive wins...

Victoria, Texas is a town about 80 miles west of Houston. Local Hispanic leaders there, in opposition to pending Immigration Legislation, boycotted all Caucasian owned businesses last month as a demonstration of their economic impact on the community. The boycott was declared a success by the Hispanic community, noting revenue in Caucasian owned businesses was down by 19 percent. Business owners declared the boycott a success as well, pointing out that shoplifting was reduced by 77 percent, money orders sent out of the country were down by 97 percent, and the cost of daily clean-up and trash collection was down by 84 percent. Shoppers reported they could actually hear English being spoken throughout the community for the first time in recent memory, and customers paid for purchases with real money, not government debit cards or food stamps!

ATTENTION Farmington Patriots:

We are looking for patriots who are willing to be "Court Watchers" there in the Farmington courthouse.

We have a particular case on January 13th, 2010, pretrial conference. The judge and Sheriff's department are VERY anti-patriot and anti-constitution in Farmington, and are denying legal Due Process among other law violations... which is standard practice these days.

Being a court watcher is a tool to use as witness evidence against unlawful judges and law enforcement personnel. Please contact Daniel Douglas, one of the Law Club members at 505-592-4697 if you can attend as a watcher.

Be Cautious About Giving Info to Census Workers

- by Susan Johnson

With the U.S. Census process beginning, the Better Business Bureau (BBB) advises people to be cooperative, but cautious, so as not to become a victim of fraud or identity theft. The first phase of the 2010 U.S. Census is under way as workers have begun verifying the addresses of households across the country. Eventually, more than 140,000 U.S. Census workers will count every person in the United States and will gather information about every person living at each address including name, age, gender, race, and other relevant data.

The big question is - how do you tell the difference between a U.S. Census worker and a con artist? BBB offers the following advice:

If a U.S. Census worker knocks on your door, they will have a badge, a handheld device, a Census Bureau canvas bag, and a confidentiality notice. Ask to see their identification and their badge before answering their questions. However, you should never invite anyone you don't know into your home.

Census workers are currently only knocking on doors to verify address information. Do not give your Social Security number, credit card or banking information to anyone, even if they claim they need it for the U.S. Census.

REMEMBER, NO MATTER WHAT THEY ASK, YOU REALLY ONLY NEED TO TELL THEM HOW MANY PEOPLE LIVE AT YOUR ADDRESS.

While the Census Bureau might ask for basic financial information, such as a salary range, YOU DON'T HAVE TO ANSWER ANYTHING AT ALL ABOUT YOUR FINANCIAL SITUATION. The Census Bureau will not ask for Social Security, bank account, or credit card numbers, nor will employees solicit donations. Any one asking for that information is NOT with the Census Bureau.

AND REMEMBER, THE CENSUS BUREAU HAS DECIDED NOT TO WORK WITH ACORN ON GATHERING THIS INFORMATION. . No Acorn worker should approach you saying he/she is with the Census Bureau.

Eventually, Census workers may contact you by telephone, mail, or in person at home. However, the Census Bureau will not contact you by Email, so be on the lookout for Email scams impersonating the Census.

Never click on a link or open any attachments in an Email that are supposedly from the U.S. Census Bureau.

For more advice on avoiding identity theft and fraud, visit www.bbb.org

Editor's Note:

The Constitution is very clear about the census... it requires us to provide the population in our homes, PERIOD. No other information is required, and any census worker that attempts to ask you for more information, simply tell them you are finished and the Constitution requires ONLY the number of people living in the unit. If they get belligerent, call 911, or better yet, tell them to get off your property... they have what they legally need, and if after three times, of telling them to leave, and they don't leave tell them you are going to get your gun, and then call 911 and report a trespasser. A video recorder or digital recorder would be great for proof of the encounter... BE PREPARED TO DEFEND YOUR RIGHTS!

Food Storage for Times of Need - Part 1 - By Hal N. Nabor

In the very near future, there are extreme hard times coming and this includes food shortages, extreme bad weather, economic collapse, and eventually collapse of this great nation of ours. We must each be responsible and not depend upon the government to be there to bail us out. We must take care of ourselves in every matter. That is, our own defense, the safety and defense of our love ones, meeting and our families needs (needs not wants), such as, shelter, water, fire (heat), food. This article is going to cover food.

Food Storage can be divided into three parts: emergency, short term, and long term. Emergency storage would be a three or four day pack that would be used for immediate evacuations. These evacuations could be from flash floods, caught out in a snow storms, wild fires, etc. The second, short term food storage, would be a 90 day food supply that contain foods you would normally eat every day. This would be for uses such as pandemics, snow storms, martial law, trucker strike, or any short term event where food would not be delivered for up to three months. The final would be for major disasters, economic collapse or possible for short term use to help out your fellow man.

3-Day Packs

Emergency food supply also known as 3 day packs, to go kits, etc. This kit should contain more than just food. These kits are designed for grab and go emergencies. In other words, this kit is designed for on the run such as a wildfire springs up in your area or an earthquake hits. And yes, Pagosa Springs and the whole entire San Juan area is prone to earthquakes. According to the USGS that in less than 20 years an earthquake with its epicenter between Lake City and Santé Fe area can hit us having a greater than 5.0 magnitude (The whole San Juan Mountain region is volcanic in origin).

Will it happen, I don't know but it is better to be prepared 50 years too early than one minute to late. The emergency kits can be broken down into four types. One designed for at home, one designed for in the vehicle, one designed for place of employment, and one designed for being on your person no matter where you are.

Personal Kit

The easiest design is on your person. This could be things that you would carry all the time with you. Whether it be a fanny pack or in your pockets, you would need some very basic essentials. These would be nutrition bars such as a power bar or an emergency food bar like you can obtain from Emergency Essentials (www.beprepared.com item #BW1-FM-R440 3600-Calorie S.O.S. Bar).

Also you would include: a water container (generally one that comes with the fanny pack), potassium iodide tablets (see paragraph on water under Home Kit), a small LED flashlight, folding knife, lighter, small first aid supplies, and heavy weight fishing line. In the winter, having a small knapsack with you, you would add knit hat, gloves, insulated socks, and pocket heaters. These would be the most essential items.

Home Kit

The next one we can talk about is the home kit. This would be the most complex. If you are an avid backpacker, you would design this as if you were going on a backpacking trip. For the rest of you, you would design it so you can comfortably carry it. It would also be designed for the season you are in. This means taking a day twice a year to pull out the items, check them and replace the items needed for the upcoming season. Likely dates can be spring solstice and fall solstice. With this pack, you want to do trial runs, whether it is for a weekend or a full three or four days doesn't matter. You will generally see what works best for you and those with you just after the first full day and night.

Even after you get the "kinks out" of your packs and feel comfortable with it, you should still do a full test with it. That test would be just to walk out your door and go to the nearest woods if at all possible. If it is going to be private property, get permission first. As our motto goes, "Prepare for the worst and hope for the best."

The worst case scenario would be walking out and living in full survival if you can. Of course this is provided the family has come out of the disaster without any major injuries. Now that you have the idea of what this pack is for, let us take a look at what to put into it.

As far as food is concerned, I prefer freeze dried foods. I like the Mountain House meals which you can get at most sporting good sections or stores. However, this does take water, at least 1½ to 2 cups per bag. Also the water needs to be brought up to the boiling point. For this you will need a fireproof container to hold the amount of water you need and a way to heat it. You could start a fire but if you are trying to remain hidden, the smoke will give you away. This also goes if you must keep moving fast, the fire building will slow you down.

The best, fastest method I know is to just eat the food as it is or to use a sterno type device to heat the water. This must be kept from the wind or the water will never boil. The best device I have found is called "Heat Cell Fuel" (Emergency Essential Item #BW1-CK-S160). The other best food to take is MRE's (Meals Ready to Eat).

These can be obtained from military surplus store or online from places like Emergency Essentials. Some sporting good stores also carry them. You can eat them hot or cold. Hot requires a heater that is water activated that you slid the package into and is disposable afterwards. The problem with these meals is the weight. If you are on the run, trying to get from point 'a' to point 'b' as fast as you can, then weight is a critical factor.

Also the more calories you will need to consume. You must plan for more food than what you would normally eat. Of course this can be made up somewhat with empty calories such as candy and candy bars, but for extended periods this will leave you feeling fatigued.

(Hal is an expert in outdoor survival, in all weather extremes. His advice would be wisely followed, even if all it is, is to buy some extra food and water, or think about the possibilities and plan with your family and neighbors for the possibility...

we can make him disappear." Those chilling words were spoken by James Pendergraph, then executive director of Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Office of State and Local Coordination, at a conference of police and sheriffs in August 2008.

The report reveals that legal citizens become victims of ICE clandestine projects where they “disappear” by shuffling people around into a maze of subfield offices, making it extremely difficult to locate people. This also serves to prohibit legal, family contact or any other humane treatment, and allows sever treatment by ICE officials who are accountable to no one.

This is not only inhumane, it reeks of a facade being created allowing the creation of such centers under the guise of “immigration enforcement,” over an eventual transfer of immigrants out of the country, and using these facilities for American citizens... dissidents and others who they want to “disappear.”

FBI Reports Huge Decrease In Murders As Firearm, Ammunition And "Large" Magazine Sales Soar! nraila.org/

Last week, the FBI issued its preliminary 2009 crime report, showing that the number of murders in the first half of 2009 decreased 10 percent compared to the first half of 2008. If the trend holds for the remainder of 2009, it will be the single greatest one-year decrease in the number of murders since at least 1960, the earliest year for which national data are available through the Bureau of Justice Statistics. Also, the per capita murder rate for 2009 will be 51 percent lower than the all-time high recorded in 1991, and it will be the lowest rate since 1963 - a 46-year low. Final figures for 2009 will be released by the FBI next year.

According to gun control supporter dogma - "more guns means more crime" - the number of privately owned firearms must have decreased 10 percent in 2009. To the contrary, however, the number rose between 1.5 and 2 percent, to an all-time high. For the better part of the last 15 months, firearms, ammunition, and "large" ammunition magazines have been sold in what appear to be record quantities. And, the firearms that were most commonly purchased in 2009 are those that gun control supporters most want to be banned - AR-15s, similar semi-automatic rifles, and handguns designed for defense. The National Shooting Sports Foundation already estimates record ammunition sales in 2009, dominated by .223 Remington, 7.62x39mm, 9mm and other calibers widely favored for defensive purposes.

Also indicative of the upward trend in firearm sales, the number of national instant check transactions rose 24.5 percent in the first six months of 2009 compared to the first six months in 2008, the greatest increase since NICS' inception in 1998. Through the end of October, NICS transactions rose 18 percent, compared to the same period in 2008.

More Guns Means More Crime? Hardly. In 2009, more guns meant less crime, in a very, very big way.

SWFR Retracts Obama Quote:

Well, one slipped through... the quote attributed to Obama regarding the military paying their own health insurance. The Free Press receives about 1000 emails a week, many of which take a lot of time to investigate. Occasionally an email comes from a reliable source, so we don't do the extra step to verify it in such cases. Well, the Obama quote in the last issue was NOT correct... it was based on some quotes and some factual information, but largely false otherwise. It was apparently meant as satire, and not actual quotes. As Publisher and Editor, I apologize for printing this and will be sure to check EVERY email I receive henceforth.

Why the Health-Care Bills Are Unconstitutional - Wall Street Journal

President Obama's health-care bill is now moving toward final passage. The policy issues may be coming to an end, but the legal issues are certain to continue because key provisions of this dangerous legislation are unconstitutional. Legally speaking, this legislation creates a target-rich environment. We will focus on three of its more glaring constitutional defects.

First, the Constitution does not give Congress the power to require that Americans purchase health insurance.

A second constitutional defect of the Reid bill passed in the Senate involves the deals he cut to secure the votes of individual senators. Some of those deals do involve spending programs because they waive certain states' obligation to contribute to the Medicaid program. This selective spending targeted at certain states runs afoul of the general welfare clause.

A third constitutional defect in this ObamaCare legislation is its command that states establish such things as benefit exchanges, which will require state legislation and regulations. This is not a condition for receiving federal funds, which would still leave some kind of choice to the states. No, this legislation requires states to establish these exchanges or says that the Secretary of Health and Human Services will step in and do it for them. It renders states little more than subdivisions of the federal government..

Tests Confirm The Swine Flu Vaccine Will Probably Not Work Against The Dangerous New H1N1 Mutation Spreading In Ukraine, Norway, Brazil, China and France. According to the New York Times, Britain's national medical laboratory reported on Friday that it has been determined that one H1N1 sample from Ukraine with the new H1N1 mutation had changed so much that the H1N1 swine flu vaccine "probably would not protect against it well".

This means that it is likely that tens of millions of people around the world are being shot up with a vaccine that will simply offer them no protection against this virulent new strain of H1N1. (See P. 19 for complete story)

Cap-And-Trade Loss A Stunner In Aussie Vote - By Tim Andrews

Cap-and-trade in Australia — which just a week ago was declared a certainty — is officially dead. This is the first major climate change turnaround anywhere in the Western world, with significant implications for our domestic debate. Combined with the Climate-gate e-mails revealing the data suppression and deceit underpinning “scientific consensus,” the whole climate change alarmism house of cards is coming crashing down. Early last week, the leader of Australia's conservative opposition, Malcolm Turnbull, announced that he had reached agreement with the government to implement cap-and-trade, thus binding his party to support it in parliament en bloc.

The agreement was signed, sealed and delivered — cap-and-trade would become law with bipartisan support. Its passage was a certainty. The elite rejoiced. But then a funny thing happened on the way to the Senate: The Australian public woke up. The days that followed were simply stunning. An unprecedented, uncoordinated and spontaneous grass-roots campaign erupted to force the opposition to reverse course.

Political offices went into meltdown, unable to cope with the torrent of phone calls, faxes and e-mails opposing what was effectively a massive tax hike. By the end of the week, 14 members of the opposition leadership had resigned in protest. As the public outcry intensified, Turnbull refused to back down, staking his entire reputation and future on his passionate support for cap-and-trade.

He violently attacked true conservatives, and repeatedly cried out that to win government you must be “moderate.” So on early Tuesday morning, opposition parliamentarians met and voted to replace him. For Citizens: Request a Grand Jury Formation!

If you know of criminal or unconstitutional activities, Due Process right violations, oppressive law enforcement or county governments, or any other questionable activity in your county, then you should demand this Grand Jury and begin presenting evidence, and have them begin investigations into activities in your area.

The Archuleta County Guard, and Pagosa Law Club are providing documents for any citizen who wishes to join in the fight to restore our freedoms and to curb corruption and criminal activities in your area. This will be a request for a Grand Jury to be formed, and should be sent to Judge Gregory Lyman and District DA Todd Risberg, or your respective DA and chief Judge in your area.

Simply go to <http://southwestfreepress.com/resource-library.html> and look for “Grand Jury documents,” and open or save them to your computer. These are for Archuleta and LaPlata county officials, so if you are from another county, customize them for your people. No computer? Call us and we’ll get them to you. This is an easy step to support your rights.

This is an official request for a Grand Jury, and for our elected officials who swore an oath to defend our rights to show they support the public and their freedoms.

Kucinich to Investigate Fannie and Freddie Bailout – Jane Hamsher (Founder & Publisher - firedoglake.com)

If the White House thought they could slip the bailout of Fannie and Freddie through by announcing it in a Christmas Eve news dump, think again. Dennis Kucinich just released this statement:

"As Chairman of the Domestic Policy Subcommittee of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, I'm announcing that the Subcommittee will launch an investigation into the Treasury Department's recent decision to lift the current $400-billion cap on combined federal assistance to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, opening the way for additional, unlimited funds through the end of 2012. This investigation will include the role played by Fannie Mae chief executive Michael J. Williams and Freddie Mac chief executive Charles E. Haldeman in the decision, if any, and will seek to ensure that the additional assistance is used for homeowners and not Wall Street."

"As Chairman of the Domestic Policy Subcommittee of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, I'm announcing that the Subcommittee will launch an investigation into the Treasury Department's recent decision to lift the current $400-billion cap on combined federal assistance to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, opening the way for additional, unlimited funds through the end of 2012. This investigation will include the role played by Fannie Mae chief executive Michael J. Williams and Freddie Mac chief executive Charles E. Haldeman in the decision, if any, and will seek to ensure that the additional assistance is used for homeowners and not Wall Street."

"Many questions remain unanswered regarding this move by the Treasury. Why suddenly remove the cap? Indications are that Freddie and Fannie, even as millions of Americans lose their homes, have used just $111 billion of the $400 billion previously available to them. Is lifting the cap on assistance a back-door TARP?"

"Additionally, I want to determine whether Fannie and Freddie have a cohesive plan to buy up the under-performing mortgages that remain on the books of the big banks, at appropriate prices, and undertake a massive reworking of the terms of the mortgages so as to stem the foreclosure crisis that continues to plague our country. This new authority must be used responsibly and for the benefit of American families. This cannot be used simply to purchase toxic assets at inflated prices, thus transferring the losses to the U. S. taxpayers and acting as a back-door TARP."

On Christmas Eve, they also announced $4-$6 million compensation packages for their top executives. But they'll start foreclosing on homeowners again in January. Fannie and Freddie have been corrupt cesspools for years, a place where presidents of both parties parked friends like Dennis DeConcini and Rahm Emanuel, giving them lucrative spots on the board of directors as political payoff. As government sponsored entities (GSEs) selling shares to the public, they operate like hedge funds that socialize losses and privatize profits. From the LA Times last year:

"This week ... news broke that until August, the lobbying firm owned by McCain campaign manager Rick Davis was paid $15,000 a month by Freddie Mac, one of the mortgage giants implicated in the current crisis (now taken over by the government and under investigation by the FBI). Apparently, Freddie Mac's plan was to gain influence with McCain's campaign in hopes that he would help shield it from pesky government regulations."

It appears they kept looking. The Democrats have been too intimidated by leadership to start looking into the utter corruption at these entities, but Kucinich just doesn't care.

Silver Club Update - 5 January 2010

1. Silver is in!!! Please make arrangements by calling 303-833-2940 to meet to pick it up or have it mailed to you! Also - please place your order before the 15th of January as usual. Isn't it amazing that just since we minted our first 2nd Amendment Silver piece in April, Silver has gone up almost $5.00?
2. We are moving forward this month with designing and minting our next Bill of Rights silver piece honoring the 9th Amendment and the power of we the people! We are deciding right now between two different designs.
3. A few of us met in Longmont before Christmas to brainstorm forming an Ag Trading Post in Longmont, Colorado. Our next meeting will be at 1:00 p.m. on Januray 9th. Please RSVP and come help us continue the brainstorming.

Some good news about nuclear destruction.

By Steve Jones and Shane Connor - Special to The Southwest Free Press

What possible 'good news' could there ever be about nuclear destruction coming to America, whether it is Dirty Bombs, Terrorist Nukes, or ICBM's from afar?

In a word, they are all survivable for the vast majority of American families, IF they know what to do beforehand and have made even the most modest of preparations.

Tragically, though, most Americans today won't give much credence to this good news, much less seek out such vital life-saving instruction, as they have been jaded by our culture's pervasive myths of nuclear un-survivability.

Most people think that if nukes go off then everybody is going to die, or will wish they had. That's why you hear such absurd comments as; "If it happens, I hope I'm at ground zero and go quickly."

This defeatist attitude was born as the disarmament movement ridiculed any alternatives to their agenda. The sound Civil Defense strategies of the 50-60's have been derided as being largely ineffective, or at worst a cruel joke. With the supposed end of the Cold War in the 80's, most Americans saw neither a need to prepare, nor believed that preparation would do any good. Today, with growing prospects of nuclear terrorism, from loose nukes in Pakistan to Iran getting the bomb, we see emerging among the public either paralyzing fear or irrational denial. People can't envision effective preparations for ever surviving a nuclear attack.

In fact, though, the biggest surprise for most Americans, if nukes are really unleashed, is that they will still be here!

Most will survive the initial blasts because they won't be close enough to any "ground zero", and that is very good news. Outside of the relatively small zone at ground zero, up to 80% of casualties could be prevented if people knew to drop and cover when they saw a bright flash instead of going to the window to investigate.

Unfortunately, though, few people will be prepared to next survive radioactive fallout if there is any. Fallout could eventually kill many times more than the blast. However, there is still more good news, as well over 90% of those potential casualties from fallout can be avoided, IF the public was pre-trained through an aggressive national Civil Defense educational program. Simple measures taken immediately after a nuclear blast, by a trained public, can prevent agonizing death and injury from radiation exposure.

Ultimately more people will die from panic than either blast or fallout. Simple knowledge and minimal preparations can prevent panic.

The National Planning Scenario #1, an originally confidential internal 2004 study by the Department of Homeland Security, demonstrated some of the above survival odds when they examined the effects of a terrorist nuke going off in Washington, D.C.. They discovered that a 10 kiloton nuke, about 2/3rds the size of the Hiroshima bomb, detonated at ground level, would result in about 15,000 immediate deaths, and another 15,000 casualties from the initial blast, thermal flash and radiation release. As horrific as that is, the surprising revelation here is that over 99% of the residents in the DC area will have just witnessed and survived their first nuclear explosion. Clearly, the good news is most people will survive the initial blast.

That study also soberly determined that another 250,000 people would soon be at risk from lethal doses of radiation from the fallout drifting downwind towards them after the blast assuming the nuke was blown up on the ground. If it was blown off in a private plane or on top of a tall building there would be little or no fallout. However, these much larger casualty numbers are avoidable, and that's more good news, but only for those self-taught or pre-trained by a Civil Defense program in what to do before fallout arrives.

Another study, released in August 2006 by the Rand Corporation, looked at a terrorist 10 kiloton nuke arriving in a cargo container and being exploded in the Port of Long Beach, California. Over 150,000 people were estimated to be at risk downwind from fallout, again many more than from the initial blast itself.

Today, lacking any nuclear Civil Defense program whatsoever, millions of American families continue to be at risk and could perish needlessly for lack of essential knowledge that used to be taught at the grade school level.

NIH Report Notes Similarity Of New York City H1N1 Swine Flu Deaths With 1918 Spanish Flu Pandemic

A shocking new report from the National Institutes For Health has noted the similarity between H1N1 swine flu deaths in New York City and deaths caused by the 1918 Spanish flu pandemic. The scientists involved in this research examined autopsy reports, hospital records and other clinical data from 34 patients who died from the H1N1 swine flu between May 15th and July 9th, 2009. All but two of the H1N1 deaths discussed in the report occurred within New York City. What the report found was that the H1N1 swine flu virus had attacked the protective cells that lined the respiratory system of these patients. That caused these patients to be much more susceptible to bacterial infections.

According to the report, this is consistent with what happened to victims of the flu during the 1918 Spanish flu pandemic. This new research is all the more disturbing considering the fact that many reports of similar H1N1 swine flu symptoms are now pouring in from all over the globe.

While some observers have been speculating on a link between the H1N1 swine flu and the 1918 Spanish flu for some time now, the truth is that this report is the first scientific research to openly come out and publicly declare a link between the two. The NIH report puts it this way....

In fatal cases of 2009 H1N1 influenza, the virus can damage cells throughout the respiratory airway, much like the viruses that caused the 1918 and 1957 influenza pandemics

We had previously reported on new research which shows that most victims of the 1918 Spanish flu actually died from bacterial pneumonia. Now, this new report clearly states that these H1N1 swine flu victims in New York City experienced a similar attack on their respiratory systems which led to bacterial infections in many cases....

A microscopic examination of tissues throughout the airways revealed that the virus caused damage primarily to the upper airway—the trachea and bronchial tubes—but tissue damage in the lower airway, including deep in the lungs, was present as well. Evidence of secondary bacterial infection was seen in more than half of the victims.

Not only that, but the damage to the lungs of these New York City H1N1 victims sounds very comparable to the damage to the lungs of victims of the 1918 Spanish flu and to the damage to the lungs of patients in Ukraine....

The researchers examined tissue samples from the 34 deceased individuals to assess how 2009 H1N1 influenza virus damaged various parts of the respiratory system. “We saw a spectrum of damage to tissue in both the upper and lower respiratory tracts,” says Dr. Taubenberger. In all cases, the uppermost regions of the respiratory tract—the trachea and bronchial tubes—were inflamed, with severe damage in some cases. In 18 cases, evidence of damage lower down in the finer branches of the bronchial tubes, or bronchioles, was noted. In 25 cases, the researchers found damage to the small globular air sacs, or alveoli, of the lungs.

At the end of the report, one of the key doctors involved in the research makes it clear that the respiratory system damage found in the New York City H1N1 patients was consistent with patterns seen during the 1918 and 1957 flu pandemics that killed millions....

“This pattern of pathology in the airway tissues is similar to that reported in autopsy findings of victims of both the 1918 and 1957 influenza pandemics,” notes Dr. Taubenberger. This report is incredibly sobering - especially considering what has been going on in Ukraine.

In Ukraine, hundreds of people have been dying of severe respiratory disease. What has apparently been happening is that the H1N1 swine flu has been viciously attacking the protective cells lining the respiratory system, thus allowing bacterial infections to ravage the lungs. Temperatures inside the lungs of some patients in Ukraine have reached as high as 135 degrees Fahrenheit, and as some of these victims near death their lungs begin to literally disintegrate and turn black as charcoal.

Ukrainian Professor Viktor Bachinsky recently described what symptoms he is seeing in patients with this virus....

"The virus, which causes death, is very aggressive, it does not strike the trachea, but immediately gets into the lungs and causes heavy swelling and solid hemorrhage. Mixed types of parainfluenza and influenza A/N1N1 lead to this state. This is a very toxic strain, which has not yet answered to the treatment of the Ministry of Health."

In Ukraine this H1N1 swine flu virus is causing the total destruction of the lungs of its victims. Recombinomics recently posted a translation of an official announcement by the Ukraine Ministry of Health that graphically describes what is happening to these patients....

The symptoms are observed at different stages of disease - a fever with a temperature over 38 C, cough, respiratory disorders. When cough was characterized by negligible allocation phlegm or dry unproductive cough with blotches of blood. All the patients come to hospital on average by 3-7 days of onset, were in serious condition. Period of time from onset to death averaged from 4 to 7 days. In all patients during a hospital for signs of respiratory insufficiency of various degrees, which quickly rose and manifested accelerated respiration rate, shortness of breath and effectiveness of independent breathing. X-ray studies were performed on 1-2 day hospitalization. Most patients experienced a double-headed particles of lower lung lesion, followed by a trend towards total destruction.

It has been a truly frightening situation over there. One doctor in Western Ukraine was quoted as saying the following about what the lungs of people who have died there look like....

Great for altitude sickness, jet lag, migraines, cross country or downhill skiing ventures in high altitudes, workouts or other sporting and recreational events where extra O2 is needed.

O2 System/2 Cartridges, $19.95. Refill Pack (6, 14 blast cartridges) $19.95. Convenient belt holder, $14.95.

"We have carried out post mortems on two victims and found their lungs are as black as charcoal. They look like they have been burned. It's terrifying."

Now similar reports are coming in from Russia, China, Brazil, France and Norway. There have even been reports of similar H1N1 symptoms in Iowa and Utah. So what is causing the H1N1 virus to do this to some people? Well, many health authorities are claiming that the "D225G" change in the receptor binding domain for the H1N1 influenza is associated with both bleeding in the lungs and a low reaction to the H1N1 swine flu vaccine.

For more about this H1N1 mutation, please check out our previous article on the matter. The reality is that this D225G mutation does seem to be linked with more aggressive behavior by the virus. It does seem to produce symptoms that are similar to what victims of the 1918 Spanish flu pandemic experienced.

So will this outbreak of H1N1 become as bad as the 1918 Spanish flu? Let us hope not. The 1918 Spanish flu is estimated to have killed between 50 and 100 million people worldwide. If that happened today, the consequences would be unimaginable.

Editor's Note: If you've been following this ongoing agenda, you'll see a pattern over and over... 1. They scare everyone with the flu dangers.

2. They warn of a pandemic and shout for everyone to get their vaccination, which is useless, and likely will lower immunity to this greater threat. 3. The flu fizzles in its spread, disappointing those interested in its spread. 4. More genetic work is done on more harmful virus, even to digging up the graves of some who died in the 1916 epidemic to have the virus to "study." 5. Lo and behold... a more virulent virus shows up, and this last time... imagine that... with "similarities" with the 1916 virus which killed 50 million or more people. 6. Vaccinations are now moot, but wait... a "new and improved" vaccination, you can be sure, will likely be introduced, and we start all over again... so be sure to get yours so you'll be further weakened and become a casualty. Maybe the gene pool is being cleansed of "stupid."

Put the pieces together people... see the bigger picture, and begin to do something more than talk and complain, or sleep and slumber. There are millions of sitting ducks enslaved in their matrix... Will they ever escape?

Cap-And-Trade Loss A Stunner In Aussie Vote - By Tim Andrews

Cap-and-trade in Australia — which just a week ago was declared a certainty — is officially dead. This is the first major climate change turnaround anywhere in the Western world, with significant implications for our domestic debate. Combined with the Climate-gate e-mails revealing the data suppression and deceit underpinning “scientific consensus,” the whole climate change alarmism house of cards is coming crashing down.

Early last week, the leader of Australia’s conservative opposition, Malcolm Turnbull, announced that he had reached agreement with the government to implement cap-and-trade, thus binding his party to support it in parliament en bloc.

The agreement was signed, sealed and delivered — cap-and-trade would become law with bipartisan support. Its passage was a certainty. The elite rejoiced. But then a funny thing happened on the way to the Senate: The Australian public woke up. The days that followed were simply stunning. An unprecedented, uncoordinated and spontaneous grass-roots campaign erupted to force the opposition to reverse course.

Political offices went into meltdown, unable to cope with the torrent of phone calls, faxes and e-mails opposing what was effectively a massive tax hike. By the end of the week, 14 members of the opposition leadership had resigned in protest. As the public outcry intensified, Turnbull refused to back down, staking his entire reputation and future on his passionate support for cap-and-trade.

He violently attacked true conservatives, and repeatedly cried out that to win government you must be “moderate.” So on early Tuesday morning, opposition parliamentarians met and voted to replace him. For the first time since 1916, the leader of a major Australian political party was deposed on the grounds of just one policy decision: the decision to support cap-and-trade.

His political career is over, his aspirations to become prime minister have come to naught.

The newly elected leader promptly announced that the opposition would once again start acting like conservatives, and would oppose the government’s great green tax. Without their support, the legislation was soundly defeated in the Senate.

Cap-and-trade, a scheme initially promoted by Enron to allow traders to profit at the expense of taxpayers, is currently before the U.S. Senate. According to the U.S. Treasury, this proposal includes between $100 billion and $200 billion in additional taxes a year, costing an additional $1,761 per family — equivalent to a 15% hike in the personal income tax.

A further report commissioned by the U.S. Senate has shown that the additional gas taxes in the proposal equate to $3.6 trillion by 2035. According to an analysis by the independent Heritage Foundation, once fully implemented this would lead directly to a staggering 2.5 million jobs lost.

Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-California) refuse to remove a provision being called the "Cornhusker Kickback" -- the nearly $100 million Medicaid deal Democratic Senator Ben Nelson secured for his home state of Nebraska. Ostensibly, the deal was in exchange for Nelson's vote -- the 60th of 60 needed -- favoring the legislation. As reported earlier, the senator's decision has angered many Nebraskans.

In a letter sent last week, the 13 attorneys general argue the provision is "constitutionally flawed" and violates the U.S. Constitution's protection against "arbitrary" legislation. Constitutional historian David Barton, the president of WallBuilders, also believes the provision is unconstitutional.

David Barton (WallBuilders)"I think there's huge constitutional problems with this thing," exclaims Barton, "and it may be that we see the power of Congress limited constitutionally through a number of different venues by these various lawsuits that are out there."

Christmas Day Bombing Threat a possible false flag British Operation

Evidence is surfacing that a rogue element of the british Government with plans to control and dominate America planned the Bomb scare simply as an “intelligence Probe” of the American response system to a blatant attack from London.

The bomb apparently was never intended to go off, but was initiated in London to see what resolve America and to see if the US was “gutless enough to put up with it.”
This “attack” is supposedly as a response to an axis of powers forming to include China, Russia and India moving into an alliance against the British Empire (which is still in major control of much of the world’s elite and wealth), and which some are moving the United States to also join to save the economic plundering taking place against the American people and dollar.

Disgraced Mississippi Judge Reports to Federal Prison

Jackson, Miss. – Bobby DeLaughter, a former Mississippi prosecutor and judge whose legal conquests became the subject of books and a movie, reported to federal prison Monday for lying to the FBI in a judicial bribery investigation.
The next chapter of DeLaughter's life, as inmate No. 12930-042, marks a long fall from the height of his legal career in 1994 when he was a prosecutor who helped convict a civil rights-era assassin for the 30-year-old murder of NAACP leader Medgar Evers.

The 55-year-old DeLaughter (deh-LAW'-ter) reported to a federal prison camp in Pine Knot, Ky., before his 2 p.m. deadline, said Federal Bureau of Prisons spokeswoman Felicia Ponce.

ACORN Scandal Bigger Than Watergate

ACORN critic Rep. Steve King (R-Iowa) is mystified that both the Democratic-controlled Congress and the Obama administration aren’t doing much about the tax-subsidized organized crime syndicate ACORN even as evidence of its wrongdoing continues to pile up.
In an exclusive interview, the House Judiciary Committee member describes the ACORN saga as “the largest corruption crisis in the history of America.”
“It’s thousands of times bigger than Watergate because Watergate was only a little break-in by a couple of guys,” said King. “By the time we pull ACORN out by its roots America’s going to understand just how big this is.”
Unlike the Nixon-era Watergate scandal, the ACORN scandal reaches not only to the highest levels of government, but also to states and localities across America. The president himself and his political advisor Patrick Gaspard used to work for ACORN and the radical advocacy group has allies throughout congressional leadership who are bending over backwards to protect it. President Obama has also hired as White House counsel Bob Bauer, whom King described as “the number one defender of ACORN in the country.”

Clear The Bench Colorado goes national! clearthebenchcolorado.org

Another recent Colorado Supreme Court decision (People v. Gutierrez) excluding evidence gained from a search of tax records of an illegal alien charged with identity theft has added yet more fuel to the fire sparked by the grassroots movement to restore accountability to Colorado’s judicial branch, Clear The Bench

Colorado, gaining coverage by the national press (Washington Times, Monday 14 December & Tuesday 15 December).
Clear The Bench Colorado Director Matt Arnold has been “persuasive, persistent, and omnipresent” (in the words of Peoples Press Collective commentator El Presidente Michael Sandoval) in raising awareness of the threat posed to our constitutional rights by an out-of-control, partisan, and activist Colorado Supreme Court – or, as Matt calls it, the “Mullarkey Majority.”
Over the last several months, Clear The Bench Colorado Director Matt Arnold has spoken at numerous events and appeared at countless grassroots gatherings (from Fort Collins to Colorado Springs, from Parker to Grand Junction); taken to the airwaves on radio (including Face the State radio, a Backbone Radio special report, the Amy Oliver show, the Mike Rosen show and nationwide on the Hugh Hewitt show) and on television, too (discussing “Voter Approval of Supreme Court Justices” on “Independent Thinking” with Jon Caldara) and interviewed by ABC-TV in Grand Junction; been interviewed or otherwise appeared in print numerous times in Colorado, before last week’s national news debut; and of course provided an ongoing stream of commentary, analysis and references on Colorado Supreme Court cases.

Europe's looming demise

"The Europe as you know it from visiting, from your parents or friends is on the verge of collapsing," Geert Wilders said in a speech in the United States last year.
The leader of the Netherlands' populist Party for Freedom added: "We are now witnessing profound changes that will forever alter Europe's destiny and might send the Continent in what Ronald Reagan called 'a thousand years of darkness.' " And not just Europe, but America as well.
Been to Europe lately? Thought it was bad? You ain't seen nothing yet. The passage of the Lisbon Treaty, hailed by President Obama, nailed the coffin shut on national sovereignty in Europe. The people of Europe fought it, but were overwhelmed by their political elites and the lack of American leadership in this age of our rather Marxist, collectivist U.S. president.
Come Jan. 1, 2010, a disastrous and suicidal pact called the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership (Europe/Mediterranean) goes into effect with little fanfare or examination. It boggles the mind that such a consequential and seismic cultural shift could be mandated and put into play without so much as a murmur from the mainstream media.
Why should Americans care about this? Americans have to care because this global gobbledygook is coming to our shores, thanks to our globalist president.

"The Compact Fluorescent - An Instrument of Tyranny!"

By Ron Ewart, President - National Association of Rural Landowners

All we have to protect ourselves from the charlatan, the con man, a special interest group, or the government, is our intellect, our knowledge, logic and common sense. That's it. Our intellect, through the use of logic, allows us to sift through our knowledge and render judgments and conclusions about what we observe with our five senses. Our common sense allows us to compare information that we receive through those senses, against that which a normal, prudent and reasonable person could reasonably assume to be true, based on his or her accumulated knowledge.

There are situations however, in which common sense and gut feeling don't work. Ask any pilot who has flown through a cloud without instrument flight training. But irrespective of three-dimensional flight, our common sense and gut feelings are fairly accurate, here on the ground at least. The old saying that, "..... if it doesn't look like a duck, fly like a duck, or quack like a duck, it probably isn't a duck."

So let's apply our intellect, knowledge, logic and common sense to the assertion that man's emissions of carbon dioxide (CO2) are contributing to the alleged crisis of run-away global warming. Probably, the most illuminating piece of knowledge to the argument is the history of the Earth itself. It is a very violent history that includes ice ages, great warming periods, massive, planet-wide volcanic eruptions and collisions with comets and asteroids, each of which is quite capable of removing civilized humans and civilization itself from the planet. The hard truth is, Earth has been going through a quiet period since the end of the last ice age, some 10,000 years ago, a period in which human civilization has been allowed to grow and prosper. The next 10,000 years could be so disastrous as to render human existence almost non-existent, or we could be wiped out tomorrow by a collision with a large, extra-terrestrial object.

One other piece of our knowledge, as sifted by our intellect, is that the weather, over which our arrogant leaders want to control "in order to save the planet", is a non-linear dynamic system. The scientific characteristics of a non-linear dynamic system is, they almost defy long-range predictions by any method, including computer modeling. Ask yourself, why do we have weather reports every hour on the hour? Because weather is a non-linear dynamic system that changes constantly and sometimes instantly violently. No matter how hard the weathermen or the scientists tweak their models, accurate predictions over a day or two long, are virtually impossible because there are just too many variables. What is even more curious, is that being a weatherman is the only job you can get paid over $100,000 a year, for being accurate less than 30% of the time.

Given that information, man's puny attempt to control the weather by limiting man-generated CO2, or trying to control any of the other events that could affect life on Earth as we know it, is pure folly. All we can really do is get out of the way, if we can. The Kyoto Treaty was folly and the Copenhagen accord, if signed by the President and ratified by the Congress, is also pure folly and a grossly negligent act. The actions being taken by our government and the governments of other western countries who sign on to this insanity, is akin to two pilots in an airliner filled with passengers, suddenly going absolutely berserk and crashing the plane into the ground. It is political, economic and sovereign suicide on a national scale. It is forcing the "passengers" on our national airplane, to commit suicide with the pilots.

One of the more egregious symbols of this insanity, is forcing the "passengers" on our national airplane to switch from good 'ole Edison's incandescent light bulb that emits a pleasing white light, to the compact fluorescent light bulb that emits a ghostly light. A light bulb that is filled with a highly toxic substance (Mercury), requires special handling for disposal and very expensive hazardous waste clean up, if accidentally broken. To add insult to injury, the insane pilots of our national airplane, in their infinite wisdom, then outlawed Edison's incandescent light bulb. Ludicrous!

Since it follows that the premise of man-caused global warming is false, based on our intellect, knowledge, logic and common sense, all actions taken by government to "fix" man-caused global warming are equally false and will only serve to send the national airplane known as America, into a spiraling crash from which there will be no chance of survival, by pilots who have gone absolutely crazy and flew our airplane into the ground.

Somehow, we need to bring sanity back into the heads of our "pilots, but how do we do that? Believe it or not, there is an equal and opposite response to this insanity and it will really get the attention of the "pilots" flying our national airplane. Why don't we just turn the compact fluorescent light bulb into an instrument of protest? That is exactly what we have done. We have delineated the method of protest at our website at: <http://www.narlo.org/fluorescent.html>. Won't you join with us in exercising our unalienable rights and letting our "pilots" know we ain't goin' to let them fly our "airplane" into the ground ..... not now, not ever!

Why Does Interpol Need Immunity from American Law? By Andy McCarthy

You just can't make up how brazen this crowd is. One week ago, (December 16, 2009) President Obama quietly signed an executive order (Executive Order 12425) that makes an international police force immune from the restraints of American law.

Interpol is the shorthand for the International Criminal Police Organization. It was established in 1923 and operates in about 188 countries. By executive order 12425, issued in 1983, President Reagan recognized Interpol as an international organization and gave it some of the privileges and immunities customarily extended to foreign diplomats. Interpol, however, is also an active law-enforcement agency, so critical privileges and immunities (set forth in Section 2(c) of the International Organizations Immunities Act) were withheld.

Specifically, Interpol's property and assets remained subject to search and seizure, and its archived records remained subject to public scrutiny under provisions like the Freedom of Information Act. Being constrained by the Fourth Amendment, FOIA, and other limitations of the Constitution and federal law that protect the liberty and privacy of Americans is what prevents law-enforcement and its controlling government authority from becoming tyrannical.

On Wednesday, however, for no apparent reason, President Obama issued an executive order removing the Reagan limitations. That is, Interpol's property and assets are no longer subject to search and confiscation, and its archives are now considered inviolable. This international police force (whose U.S. headquarters is in the Justice Department in Washington) will be unrestrained by the U.S. Constitution and American law while it operates in the United States and affects both Americans and American interests outside the United States.

Interpol works closely with international tribunals (such as the International Criminal Court — which the United States has refused to join because of its sovereignty surrendering provisions, though top Obama officials want us in it). It also works closely with foreign courts and law-enforcement authorities.

Why would we elevate an international police force above American law? Why would we immunize an international police force from the limitations that constrain the FBI and other American law-enforcement agencies? Why is it suddenly necessary to have, within the Justice Department, a repository for stashing government files which, therefore, will be beyond the ability of Congress, American law-enforcement, the media, and the American people to scrutinize?

Editor's Note: Does the word "Duh" mean anything to anyone? What this is saying is simple: Obama is supporting a potential "domestic terrorist" police organization that has immunity to prosecution for any "crimes" against Americans, such as illegal searches and seizures of property and information, wiretapping, kidnapping of "dissidents," or anyone who is a threat to the corporate beast, physical abuse in "doing their job," or whatever. How convenient.

This essentially is a free ticket from prosecution for this organization, and anyone can disappear, or any crime against us can occur and no one could do anything about it. In fact, one report states that "President Obama has ordered that all dissident US citizens be "effectively disappeared by March 2010 as fears of civil war continue growing in that fast collapsing country."

This means rounding up dissidents, or anyone who might be a threat to the status quo, and remove them from the continent, and to international prisons, without ANY constitutional rights whatsoever. I say NO to THAT bull... but who will stand together against this lawlessness?

Editor's Update Note:

Recent Developments just uncovered reveal a series of Economic Terrorist activities going on within the United States and against the American people, possibly another reason for the Interpol immunity. This does not justify unconstitutional activities by Interpol, and the avoidance of same by the government, but here are pieces of information on this developing situation:

"Policy Change (Interpol immunity) At The U.S. Department Of Justice: All U.S. Financial Subversives Now Treated As Economic Terrorists."

"This whole issue was initiated by the lien filed against the U.S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve. The calamity surrounding the Lien, in the immense sum of $47 trillion activated on or about 6th December and imposed by the sovereign Lien Holders – the Chinese parties and the British Monarchical Power."

"ALL individuals and entities within the United States' jurisdiction that have participated in the stealing, diversion and conversion of funds belonging to others, INCLUDING past and present officials, both elected and appointed, within the US Government and its structures, WILL BE INVESTIGATED AND PROSECUTED FOR ECONOMIC TERRORISM perpetrated against the United States and the American people (and the Rest of the World) an act of war. The penalty for TREASON IN TIME OF WAR is summary execution."

"It follows that the US Attorney General and all the State Attorneys General are now obliged** to act vigorously on the basis of the mentioned POLICY CHANGE, or they themselves can be arrested for obstruction of justice by INTERPOL personnel and then extradited to a relevant jurisdiction such as the British jurisdiction for defying obligations imposed upon them by International Law, or else subjected to the full rigours of American law, which prescribes summary execution for treason in time of war. Economic terrorism is treason."

It would appear to me that this declaration could and should also include the massive fraud and theft of mortgages and homes through foreclosures where fraud is highly likely, or any other greedy acts by corrupt bankers, attorneys and financial elite.

This is an extremely serious situation, that, if proven to be true and valid, all employees and lawyers with mortgage companies and banks involved with this and know of it and do NOT report it, can be held accountable, and even executed.

**MISPRISION OF FELONY: U.S. CODE, TITLE 18, PART 1, CHAPTER 1, SECTION 4:

"Whoever, having knowledge of the actual commission of a felony cognizable by a court of the United States, conceals and does not as soon as possible make known the same to some Judge or other person in civil or military authority under the United States, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both"

In a past issue of the Free Press, we reported on the Immense Leo Wanta trust fund established in the name of the American people, but that certain government leaders and others are in active efforts to locate the fund, and prevent the fund from being given to the American people, and to resolve the national debt.

It appears that perhaps this fund is also linked to the investigations being initiated on an international level.

I am dubious of this being a "righteous" search for "criminals harming the American people," but IS possibly a means to locate the Wanta fund, and is a worldwide attempt by the elite bankers to consolidate other financial loose strings and power into one worldwide power and financial base.

It can only be hoped that there are some true American leaders within government and military that are part of this investigation and drive, all protecting American and International people's interests. Don't hold your breath on that one till the fat lady sings.

fatty trimmings the industry once relegated to pet food and cooking oil. The trimmings were particularly susceptible to contamination, but a study commissioned by the company showed that the ammonia process would kill E. coli as well as salmonella.

Officials at the United States Department of Agriculture endorsed the company's ammonia treatment, and have said it destroys E. coli "to an undetectable level." They decided it was so effective that in 2007, when the department began routine testing of meat used in hamburger sold to the general public, they exempted Beef Products. Entire article at nytimes.com

Late breaking news:

False Flag Lockdown Test in Pagosa?

Thursday, 1-7-10, the entire downtown area of Pagosa Springs, including schools, was in a lockdown due to an alleged story about a man picked up by an unidentified woman, who then allegedly pulled a gun on her. She then allegedly made a cell phone call to authorities on the event. From the beginning, this story reeks of nothing more than testing how citizens will respond to authorities in emergency situations. Identifying the woman should be no problem via cell phone records. Calls to the free press stated some citizens were approached, even though they were known by law enforcement personnel. The authorities were randomly searching vehicles and citizens on the street claiming to be trying to find this "guy with a gun." And... where did the guy go and what made him leave the woman's vehicle, despite the gun?

Equipment being set up... again?

Reports are coming in on the re-establishment of equipment once again near Park and Vista in Pagosa Springs. Weather equipment monitoring was the last stated purpose, just last year. Why is it back again?
